GRUNDY GROWS PANICKY UNDER LOBBY GRILLING

Senator Weathers Flurry Until Questioners Discuss Doane.

EDITOR DESCRIBED AS MERELY VISITOR

But Disputed Personage Says He Is Paid by Pennsylvanian.

OFFICE ALLOTMENT EXPLAINED BY HEAD

Moses Says Space Was Given Because of Absence of Colleague.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Senator Joe Grundy, of Pennsylvania, got panicky in debate yesterday and let himself in for another severe ride by the Caraway lobby committee, just at a time, too, when the tariff fight is becoming most intense.

And the committee quickly cleared its decks to go after him, by way of three of his high tariff associates at first, and maybe the senator himself later.

The committee summoned Warren F. Doane, editor of The Manufacturer, organ of the Manufacturers' Club in Philadelphia; John G. Lerch, of the New York law firm of Lamb & Lerch, and Arthur L. Faubel, general secretary of the American Tariff League, to appear before it this morning in connection with published reports that the senator had moved his high tariff organization to the Capitol with him when he became senator; that an extra senatorial office had been set aside for it.

Doane Discussion Upsetting.

The senator weathered yesterday's flurry in good shape until it came to a discussion of Mr. Doane.

With both Senators Caraway and Harrison facing him he explained that Mr. Doane was just a visitor to his office, a welcomed high tariff visitor as the Pennsylvania senator is, of course, most interested in the tariff, that he did not occupy the senator's office at all.

Just about the time the senator was giving this explanation to the Senate, or more particularly to Senators Caraway and Harrison, while his Old Guard colleagues looked on anxiously, Mr. Doane in the senator's office was explaining that, of course, he worked for the senator, that he had worked for him for years, that he, another man and two stenographers who had been in the offices of Senator Gruhdy in the Transportation Building before he was appointed senator had come to the Capitol with him, that they were paid by the senator himself, that they were additional employes to the four which the Government allows the senator.

Wanted Ten Like Him.

The senator, himself, had very frankly told newspapermen that Mr. Doane worked for him and expressed the wish—a favorite phrase of his—that he had ten more like him.

In fact, Mr. Doane's connections with the senator are so well known that the opposing senators chortled inwardly when the colloquy took place on the floor.

Senator Harrison had brought the matter up and warned that if the reports were true that Senator Grundy had been given a separate office for his staff of tariff workers that he would introduce a resolution to vacate it unless the senator him-

Taft Fails to Gain, Is Latest Bulletin

Takes Nourishment 'Fairly Well,' Physicians Declare.

(Associated Press).

The condition of William Howard Taft was said by his physicians at 7 o'clock last night to have shown no improvement since morning, but that he had taken nourishment "fairly well."

The bulletin, by Drs. Francis R Hagner and Thomas A. Claytor, read: "The former Chief Justice has taken nourishment fairly well, but his condition has shown no improvement since this morning."

The doctors did not plan to visit Mr. Taft again last night but, instead, to keep in touch with the attending nurses by telephone to learn of any indicative change that might occur.

Mrs. Taft took her customary morning and evening rides in the warm sun and once while she was out the only caller of the day arrived in a smart English dogcart drawn by a spirited roan horse and driven by a uniformed coachman.

GERM VICTIM

MRS SADIE CARLIN.

U.S. WOMAN WORKER PSITTACOSIS VICTIM

Mrs. Sadie Carlin, of Public Health Service, Attacked by Parrot Fever.

INFECTED DURING TESTS

Psittacosis or "parrot fever" has attacked another one of the employes of the United States Bureau of Public Health. Mrs. Sadie Carlin, 45 years old, of 818 Sixth street northeast, is in Providence Hospital under the care of the most capable specialists the Government can provide.

Mrs. Carlin, who has been employed by the Bureau of Public Health since 1916, became ill Saturday while at her duties in the hygienic laboratory, E street near Twenty-fourth northwest. She complained of a severe headache and was persuaded to take sick leave Saturday afternoon so that she might go home.

When she did not improve Sunday morning, members of her family called Dr. G. W. McCoy, head of the Hygienic Laboratory. He ordered that she be removed to the hospital and called other specialists into consultation. Monday it was definitely decided that Mrs. Carlin had contracted psittacosis.

At the hospital Mrs. Carlin's condition was described as satisfactory. Doctors expressed the opinion that there was no immediate danger. The disease was detected in time, they said, to curb some of its worst effects.

Mrs. Carlin lives with her mother and her two children, a daughter, Margaret, 17 years old, and her son, George, 16 years old. Her husband has been dead since her son was two years old and she has been supporting them since that time.

According to Dr. McCoy, Mrs. Carlin had been handling the cultures which were being studied in the laboratory in an effort to find a preventative to the fever. She had been a tireless worker in the department, and had been especially interested in finding the causes and the cure for psittacosis.

Mrs. Carlin was born in Washington. After her preparatory school studies she took a commercial course and passed a clerical examination at the time of the World War. The laboratories were being pushed to the limit for vaccines for the soldiers and instead of going into routine office duties, she found herself placed as a laboratory assistant with Dr. Hazeltine. She developed an unusual aptitude for the work and was put through an intensive course in laboratory practice by Dr. Ella M. A Enslow, the expert in charge.

The testing of the typhoid vaccine was her first experiment, as the Public Health laboratory was sending out, at that time, large quantities every day. These were tested for potency in three doses, with three rabbits to each vaccine, one week apart, in the same way that the doses

FRENCH FLOOD DEATH TOLL IS PLACED AT 700

$40,000,000 Is Estimated as Property Damage; 40,000 Homeless.

DOUMERGUE, TARDIEU VIEW DEVASTATION

Residents of Inundated Areas Disregarded Warnings.

BORDEAUX REPORTS VINEYARD MENACE

Troops Rush Foodstuffs to Devastated Regions as Torrents Abate.

Paris, March 6 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The death toll from floods which have ravaged southern and central France for four days had mounted tonight to 700, according to terrifying reports reaching Paris from the devastated areas. Property damage is conservatively estimated at $40,000,000 and the number of homeless at 40,000.

President Gaston Doumergue and Premier Andre Tardieu are leaving Paris tonight for a tour of inspection in the departments of the Tarn, the Tarn-et-Garonne, the Lot-et-Garonne and five other seriously damaged departments, the total area of which is larger than the combined areas of New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland and New Hampshire.

The president of the republic today handed M. Tardieu his personal check for 20,000 francs (about $800) as a contribution to the fund for relief of flood sufferers.

Vineyard Lands Menaced.

Dispatches reaching here today from Bordeaux, third largest city in France, state that the swollen waters of the River Garonne are rapidly approaching the city, overflowing their banks on the way and spreading over some of the finest vineyard lands in France. The grape crop at Barsac and Cerons, two famous wine-making centers, are threatened.

The suddenness with which flood waters swept into Moissac Monday night, wiping out the principal streets of the town in five minutes and drowning 200 residents as well as 400 more in surrounding villages, has given rise to the belief there that some sort of an earthquake turned the rivers into raging torrents as irresistible as a tidal wave.

Homes in southern France under the pressure of flood waters have been crumbling like a child's house of cards before a sweep of the hand. In many districts the only buildings left standing are the churches, many of which are from five to eight centuries old. Five hundred houses were swept away in less than an hour in Montauban alone—one-fourth of the town.

Inhabitants Stayed Till Last.

The incredibly skeptical inhabitants of the devastated region appear to have disregarded warnings and clung to their homes till the last moment ever after the dread tocsins announcing the water's approach had been ringing for hours. In this they resembled French peasants during the World War who refused to leave their native soil even when their farms were under heavy bombardment daily. This refusal to budge from their ancestral acres accounts for the enormous loss of life perhaps even more than the sudden rise of the waters.

With the inundation now subsiding, once smiling villages are desolate, fever-laden tracts, covered with alternating layers of slime and gigantic sheets of muddy water. Heartrending scenes are witnessed as sur-

TEAR GAS IS USED TO QUELL REDS IN WHITE HOUSE RIOT AS JOBLESS AND POLICE FIGHT IN MANY CITIES

W. Z. Foster, Candidate for President, Is Put Under Arrest.

100 RECEIVE HURTS IN NEW YORK CLASH

100,000 Throng Square in Detroit, Causing Tie-Up of Traffic.

CLEVELAND PARADE IS BROUGHT TO HALT

Many in Huge Gatherings Merely Citizens Curious to See Melees.

(Associated Press.)

On historic old Boston Common, in the newer Campus Martius of Detroit, on Pennsylvania avenue outside the high iron fence that surrounds the White House grounds, in New York's Union Square facing the Tammany wigwam, in the hills of Seattle and in the roaring canyons of Chicago, tens of thousands of Americans gathered on "Red Thursday."

Some of them are in jail today and some in hospitals. Hundreds nurse lacerated scalps, black eyes, bruised noses, and the rest; thousands on thousands, have gone peacefully back to flats and bungalows, enjoying the exhilaration of having seen "a real show."

There were Communists among them, Communists trying to make more Communists by an international unemployment day, with the jobless marching simultaneously on city halls all over America and all over the world. There were men without work, too, shabby, ill-fed, despondent, but more than all the rest there were just everyday Americans—those curious ones who will stop traffic any day to watch a man demonstrating a safety razor in a drugstore window.

Police Sort Out Reds.

And so far into the night New York police detectives worked to sort out Communists from innocent onlookers among the 100 injured in the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital, and in Cleveland, Detroit and Seattle hundreds of persons who no doubt are not Communists at all, nor even out of jobs, are recovering from nightstick blows.

With nearly 100 injured and almost as many arrested, including William Z. Foster, presidential candidate of the Workers Communist Party in 1928, New York's demonstration was the biggest.

In Detroit 12 were reported injured and 23 arrested. A crowd, estimated by Detroit police at 100,000, jammed into the Campus Martius and Cadillac Square, backing up into Woodward avenue, half a mile from city hall. Two thousand police finally cleared them out—partly by running buses and street cars through the mobs.

3,000 Parade in Cleveland.

In Cleveland 3,000 paraded to the city hall, and 15,000 more gathered in public square. Mounted police charged in and broke up the demonstration.

There was one arrest on Boston Common, 20 out of a crowd of 5,000 that milled around the city hall in Toronto, and 12 out of a parade that was broken up before it got started in Pittsburgh. In Seattle 1,000 Communists and Communist sympathizers battled the police while 5,000 curious looked on. Someone started throwing bricks. There were twelve arrested. One man was injured and nine arrested in Milwaukee.

There were also peaceful demonstrations in Chicago, Baltimore, Charlotte, N. C.; Oakland, Calif.; Houston, Tex., and St. Louis, Mo.

Mass Meeting Later Fails to Materialize; Hoover Works During Row.

A threatened Communist mass meeting to protest against treatment accorded them by police during a demonstration at noon yesterday in front of the White House failed to materialize last night and so the heralded observance of the international unemployment day came to a quiet end in the National Capital.

The gathering was slated at the organization headquarters on Seventh street, near O, northwest, but though police were on hand no crowd gathered. Neither was there the usual gathering at Seventh and Pennsylvania avenue that follows a red outbreak during the day.

The Communists declared in a typewritten statement, however, that they are by no means squelched by the setback yesterday and they expect to stage other demonstrations.

After protesting against what they termed "the brutality of the police," the statement asserted: "The clubbings and arrests will not stop the Communist Party and Trade Union Unity League from organizing the unemployed—white and Negro workers—to secure their demands."

Thousands See Uprising.

A crowd of approximately 5,000, including many Government employes out for their lunch hour, witnessed the uprising on Pennsylvania avenue, and several onlookers were slightly injured when they became involved in the melee of flying fists and clubs.

Of the fourteen arrested in front of the White House, all but three of them had been released upon payment of collateral last night. They will face trial in Police Court this morning.

All save the leader, Bert Lawrence, whose speech set off the fistic fireworks yesterday, were charged with disorderly conduct and required to put up $25 collateral. Lawrence, who was charged with speaking in a public place without permission, was held for $100 collateral.

Policemen's clubs, blackjacks, fists and a tear gas bomb were used by police in dispersing the 106 Communists who staged the demonstration in front of the White House at noon.

Red Leaders Dodge Arrest.

The chief agitators of the communistic organization, who were principally responsible for the demonstration, escaped arrest. One of them was seen to leave in an automobile shortly after the riot began.

The stage could not have been more appropriately set for the exhibition. Warned in advance of the plan of the Communists, about 50 or more District and United States Park policemen and plainclothes men were on hand, along with some of the high officials. Cameramen, including representatives of the talking film news, were in abundance, one of them, in fact, was slugged during the free-for-all fight.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, took charge of the District police as soon as the outbreak occurred. Capt. R. C. Montgomery, who is in charge of the United States police, was in the thick of the combat. He had formerly directed several of his plain clothes men to arm them-

Scores Hurt as Communists Attempt to Break Police Lines.

WHALEN WIELDS CLUB

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Incited by fiery orators, several hundred Communists turned a peaceful unemployment demonstration into a riot in Union Square today when they attempted to storm through police lines in defiance of orders not to parade.

More than 40,000 other persons, attracted to the square through curiosity, became innocent victims of the police charges that followed and scores were injured in the rush. Almost a hundred persons, including three policemen were taken to hospitals.

Six of the Communists leaders, including William Z. Foster, organizer of the unemployment demonstration, were arrested on charges of inciting riot.

The demonstration, which started in the square at noon, progressed for more than two hours in an orderly fashion while four and sometimes five speakers were shouting at the crowds at the same time.

Airplanes droned overhead, tickertape and torn papers fluttered down from the tall buildings around the square and a carnival atmosphere prevailed.

Police Commissioner Whalen had set up temporary headquarters in the square within earshot of the speakers, and the surrounding streets were lined with mounted and foot police, armored motorcycles and emergency wagons.

Having been refused permission to march from the square to City Hall to present a petition to Mayor Walker, the Communist leaders leaped to the speaking platforms and urged their excited followers to defy the police.

A movement westward into Broadway from Square Plaza by a squad of Communists carrying placards immediately turned the peaceful gathering into turmoil.

A police emergency truck, waiting at the corner with mounted machine gun and manned by tear-gas bomb squad, swung into the street to head off the marchers.

Two lines of policemen and detectives, who had blackjacks and clubs hidden under their coats and uniforms, closed in behind the truck,

Lindbergh Is Thrown And Dragged by Horse

Del Monte, Calif., March 6 (A.P.). Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was thrown from a polo pony here today and dragged for 25 feet. He was severely shaken up, but escaped injury.

Col. Lindbergh was riding a mount owned by J. C. Cowdin, of New York, at the time the accident occurred. The aviator was galloping down the Del Monte polo field when the pony suddenly sent its rider sprawling to the turf.

Before he could halt the pony, Col. Lindbergh was dragged along the turf. He laughed off the incident and apparently was not hurt. The colonel, here for glider test flights, went for the horse ride when lack of winds prevented him from flying.

LEADER IN SOCIETY DEFENDS DRY LAW

Mrs. Ruth G. K. Strawbridge Cites Poll Backed by Taft in House Inquiry.

ATTERBURY IS CRITICIZED

(Associated Press.)

Upholding prohibition as a boon to society women, beneficial to the farmer, and as saving 100,000 lives in a decade, prohibitionists yesterday demanded that the eighteenth amendment be retained in the Constitution.

Rounding out two days of testimony before the House judiciary committee at hearings on measures to repeal the dry laws, the prohibition forces were assured by Chairman Graham, of the committee, that they would be granted all the time they needed for a full presentation of their contentions. The drys devoted yesterday to assailing the arguments advanced by the wet advocates, and at the end the hearing was continued until next Wednesday.

Both Mrs. Ruth G. K. Strawbridge, Philadelphia society leader, and Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, attacked W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Pierre S. Du Pont, Wilmington, Del., industrialist, for their advocacy of repeal.

Besides these two witnesses, the committee heard Patrick H. Callahan, a Louisville, Ky., manufacturer, who is general secretary for the As-

THREE REDS KILLED IN GERMAN RIOTING

Police Slay One in Berlin and Two in Halle; Paris Is Quiet.

BRITISH ISLES TRANQUIL

Berlin, March 6 (A.P.).—Mounted policemen swinging heavy clubs rode down Communist demonstrators in "international unemployment day" manifestations tonight, and cleared them from the streets. One Communist was killed. Police reported that 7 civilians and 7 policemen had been injured and 270 arrests made.

The demonstrations started late, after a fairly quiet day, and never got out of hand. When groups of Communists suddenly appeared in the late afternoon at the central point of Leipzigerstrasse and Friedrichstrasse, and tried to hold up traffic, the police fired to disperse them, killing one.

Most of the disorders occurred in the working class sections of the city.

At Neukoeln, a Communist stronghold, demonstrators tried to derail the street cars by throwing rails and crossties on the tracks. In the Hermannstrasse, they doggedly tried to assemble for a parade, but mounted police galloping up and down the street dispersed them. The police clubbed the Communists severely.

Mounted police in the Buelowplatz cleared the square under the illumination of searchlights, which were constantly turned on the milling mobs of demonstrators.

The police succeeded in isolating the entire district of Neukoeln, which was the scene of riots last May. All side streets were closed by police guards. Large reinforcements were sent to deal with the mobs.

Communist headquarters in the Karl Liebknecht House flew the red flag.

In general, the Communists gave the police a heavy day's work breaking up incipient demonstrations, but aside from a single death the casualties in Berlin were limited to beatings on both sides and a large number of hospital cases.

The Communist tactics were to keep the police on the qulvive, and under cover of the night they were a constant source of irritation.

During the police charges in the slum districts many bystanders and pedestrians suffered a drubbing as well as the demonstrators. The police

Two Serving Terms on Rum Charges Ask for Clemency

Daniel Dougherty and Maurice Horan, Convicted in Number of Combined Cases, File Formal Application for Pardon; Rover Action Awaited.

Daniel Dougherty and Maurice Horan, who were convicted in Police Court late last year on a multiplicity of charges under the national prohibition act, and who were sentenced, on December 3, to serve six months in jail and pay $1,000 fines or serve an additional six months, have appealed to President Hoover for an executive pardon, it was learned yesterday.

Formal application for the pardon has been filed with the Department of Justice and was sent yesterday to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover for recommendation. Mr. Rover immediately transmitted the matter to Assistant United States Attorney David Aiken Hart, in charge of prohibition enforcement in Police Court, who prosecuted the case against the men.

Mr. Hart declined to state definitely what recommendation he would make, but pointed out that the men were tried on a number of charges some of which had originated in 1928, which was taken as indicating that he would disapprove a pardon. The trial of Dougherty and Horan was one of the first conducted under Mr. Hart's plan to combine old cases with new ones and add an additional charge of nuisance.

Both of the men were convicted on charges of sale, possession and nuisance, all contained in one information.

Both tell the President that if they are released they will be law-abiding citizens in the future.

Noted U.S. Aviatrix Pays Visit to City

Elinor Smith Praises Move to Establish Airport for District.

Miss Elinor Smith paid Washington a fleeting visit yesterday when she flew here from Wilmington, Del., to secure the barograph that will be used to register her forthcoming attempt at the women's airplane altitude record and also to straighten out a few details in connection with her flying license.

She stated that this was the first time she had been in Washington since last May and expressed both surprise and pleasure at the improvements that have been made in the city's aviation facilities since that time. She also gave her hearty approval to the plans for the new Washington air terminal, scheduled to embrace both the Washington airport and Hoover Field with, later on, the Gravelly Point site added.

She announced that her trial for the altitude record will be made within the next few days whenever weather conditions are most favorable.

serve with tear gas sticks, as it is the policy of these police to use such gas instead of clubs to quell rioters.

So far as could be learned last night only one person was injured seriously enough by the tear gas, which was released from a gas gun by a plainclothes park policeman, to warrant hospital treatment, and he was a policeman, A. E. Brown, 32 years old, of the Third Precinct. He was given first aid at the Washington Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital and later released.

Girl Attacks Policeman.

Policeman B. J. Beckman, of the Third Precinct, was badly cut and battered on his face and lips by the fists of a fiery girl demonstrator, Miss Edith Briscoe, 19 years old, who is one of the Communist leaders in the Capital.

A goodly number of the paraders suffered bruised and cut faces, heads and hands in the clash with police. Several spectators, who were drawn unwillingly into the melee, were also slightly injured. Several policemen were seen swing their clubs or blackjacks freely on whoever happened to be in their way.

One woman was dragged from the sidewalk into the street by a policeman. Lieut. Edward Kelly, chief of the headquarters homicide squad, pulled down a man who was hanging from the White House fence, kicking at policemen.

Hoover Remains Calm.

President Hoover appeared undisturbed by the demonstration, which was within a half block of his office, and continued work throughout the disturbance. He had previously issued orders not to make any arrests unless the Communists became disorderly.

Delegates from the District Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who called on Mrs. Hoover just before the demonstration began, remained to see the riot. Among them were two D. A. R. members from London, England, Mrs. C. Earle Brundage and Mrs. Volney A. Brundage.

Determined that no Communists should slip into the White House under the banner of the D. A. R., two of the members stood with secret service men at the east gate to identify each delegate as she appeared. This was done on the instruction of George Akerson, secretary to the President, who also asked each woman who called on the First Lady to bring her card of admission.

The two sentinels were Mrs. Harry G. Grove, the newly elected State vice regent, and Mrs. Harry Oberholser.

The question of who swung the first fist in the uprising was still unsettled last night as District police contended that park policemen had pulled the would-be speaker, Bert Lawrence, from his pedestal on the White House fence, and park police replied that it was a general rush of onlookers, eager for an affray, together with both District and park police.

Beginning Is Orderly.

The demonstration began tamely enough with a parade of more than 100 men, women and girls on Pennsylvania avenue, between East and West Executive streets. After the Communists had walked back and forth several times, Lawrence mounted the fence foundation, directly in front of the movie cameras, and started to speak. Before scarcely a word came from his mouth he was dragged to the pavement.

The crowd, which had been tensely awaiting such an excuse, broke loose. Inspector William S. Shelby, chief of detectives, who had previously ordered Capt. William G. Stott, of the Third Precinct, to send part of his men back to the station, ordered the District police to get into the battle.

It was then that the tear gas gun, which resembles a policeman's club, was opened, and the throng, which had grown to several thousand, began to disperse. Police meanwhile took into custody some of the more violent agitators.

The parade was preceded by a mass meeting at the Seventh street headquarters at which Lawrence was chief speaker. A detail of police was on hand but left the gathering when asked to do so. The crowd was orderly, and no arrests were made.

One Especially Troublesome.

One of the most uncontrollable was a burly colored man, who later gave the name of Solomon Thomas Walter Harper, 34 years old, of Winston-Salem, N. C. He has been arrested several other times here and in other cities for participating in Communist demonstrations.

A large proportion of the rioters were Negroes and a number were young white girls. One youth, attired in a fiery red shirt, took an active part in the scrap.

William (Bert) Lawrence, 26 years old, of Baltimore, was required to deposit $100 collateral on a charge of making a speech in a public place without permission. Miss Driscoe was compelled to put up $75 on two charges of assault and one of disorderly conduct. Mischa Deskin, of the 2900 block Georgia avenue, deposited $50 for charges of assault and disorderly conduct.

Youths Later Released.

Two youths, Leo West, 19 years old, colored, of the 600 block K street, and Joe Rinkowski, 24 years old, of Baltimore, were held for investigation yesterday afternoon and later released without being charged.

The other eight, each of whom put up $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct, are John Worland, 22 years old, of the 1300 block, Harvard street; Rhinehart Schienbenhuber, 23 years old, of Baltimore; William Phillips, 17 years old, of the 400 block, Kenyon tareet; Sarah Deskin, sister of the other Deskin, both of the Georgia avenue address; Albert Mallan, 17 years old, of the 1300 block, Seventh street; William Snowden, 23 years old, of the 1300 block, Seventh street; Frank Phillips, 17 years old, of the 400 block, Seventh street; Frank Phillips, 17 years old, of the 400 block, Kenyon street, and Harper.

Arrangements for their release were made by Charles E. Ford, attorney for the International Labo Defense.

Polisher Worth $41 Stolen.

Charles H. Graham, manager of Sairens Transfer Co., Fifteenth and H streets northeast, informed police yesterday that a box containing an electric floor polisher, valued at $41, was stolen from one of the company's trucks, parked in an alley in the vicinity of Fifteenth and S streets northwest.

CLASH IN CLEVELAND SEEN BY THOUSANDS

Score Injured Slightly and One Arrested in Public Square Disorders.

MAYOR'S REPLIES IN VAIN

Cleveland, Ohio, March 6 (A.P.).—One man was arrested for hurling stones at policemen, and more than a score of persons suffered minor injuries when police broke up a crowd estimated at 15,000, who gathered in Public Square after 3,000 alleged Communists marched on City Hall in an unemployment day demonstration here today.

The crowd began gathering before noon at the square, and during the noon rush hour marched on the hall. When the demonstrators were forced to halt at the steps of the building, where a riot occurred during a similar demonstration last February 11, John Adams, self-styled Communist, gathered a committee and met Mayor John D. Marshall. Adams demanded financial aid for the unemployed and the fulfillment of eleven other requests, including recognition of the Soviet Union unemployment insurance, five-day week and the seven-hour day.

The mayor said the city could do nothing except aid the unemployed, and that aid already had been given. With a retort that the mayor's reply "was characteristic of all officials," and a few other remarks the crowd left for the square.

During the afternoon speakers delivered inflammatory addresses, punctuated with peaceful advice.

Police kept themselves concealed in the rear of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Building and the basement of the Federal Building until late in the afternoon, when the crowd became unruly and several persons began pulling trolleys of street cars off the power lines.

At 4:15 p. m. a dozen mounted police, trailed by five squad cars, pushed into the crowd, and patrol began using their night sticks. More than a score of persons were knocked down, cut and bruised. A man, who gave him name as John Prahl, 24, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

By 5 p. m. the square was cleared.

Woman Convicted Of Gas "Tapping"

Put in Jail for Being Late to Trial, She Loses Case in Court.

Dorothy M. Davis, 24 years old, who was sent to jail for 48 hours several days ago when she failed to appear on time for trial in Police Court on a charge of "tapping" a gas main, was tried and convicted in the same court yesterday before Judge John P. McMahon.

Her attorneys, Lewis Whitestone and W. J. Sullivan, immediately noted an exception, indicating that they will petition the District Court of Appeals for a writ of error.

Miss Davis was sent to jail for 48 hours by Judge Isaac R. Hitt last month when she appeared in court at 3:30 o'clock for her trial which had been set for 10 o'clock. Judge Hitt declared he would make an example of her. The woman's attorneys, however, declared she was kept in jail 96 hours instead of 48. Their defense at her trial was insufficient evidence. Assistant United States Attorney Irvin Goldstein prosecuted.

THREE DEAD IN RED RIOTS IN GERMANY

could not tell them apart in the dark, and did not look too closely.

Halle, Germany, May 6 (A.P.).—Two Communists were killed and sixteen arrested in "international unemployment day" manifestations today. The police fired on the demonstrators, who had attacked them with clubs and stones.

London, March 6 (A.P.).—"International unemployment day" was observed in most of the capitals of Europe today with parades of Communists and jobless, many arrests of leaders in clashes with the police, but with very little disorder of importance, except in Berlin.

3,000 in Skirmish.

"Red Thursday" proved only a pale pink in the British Isles. In Dublin there were some lively incidents as a large number of unemployed attempted to march on Leinster House where the Dail sits. They were charged by the police who used their batons and arrested eight demonstrators.

In London a demonstration on Tower Hill, attended by 3,000 persons, led to some skirmishing with the police in which five demonstrators were injured. Four men were arrested in Glasgow and five in Manchester. No reports of disturbances were received from elsewhere in the country.

Paris Is Quiet.

Communists and police clashed at municipal employment offices in Berlin, the most serious being at the central office, where a mob of 3,000 jobless blocked the streets. At one place the demonstrators attacked the police with bricks and other missiles but were dispersed shortly. Riotous clashes were reported from Hamburg, Breslau and Kiel.

Paris went about its business calmly and Communist demonstrations of any consequence failed to materialize. Special detachments of police were on hand but they had little to do. The big department stores, as a matter of precaution, gave up their sidewalk sales for the day.

There were demonstrations in Stockholm, Seville, Antwerp, Copenhagen and Budapest, but no disorders were reported although in some cases arrests were made.

TEAR GAS BOMB SCATTERS COMMUNIST CROWD

RIOT PRECIPITATED BY RIVAL ORATORS

TWO POLICEMEN INJURED

Milwaukee, Wis., March 6 (A.P.).—A dispute between two soap box orators touched off a riot of unemployed in downtown Milwaukee this afternoon and brought about the arrest of 47 men.

Two policemen and half a dozen demonstrators were injured in the fighting which followed the attempt of a rival to "break in" on the speech of a Communist organizer.

More than 1,500 men took part in a parade which preceded the battle. Marching past the City Hall, they derided the efforts of the Socialist city administration to solve the unemployment problem by opening soup kitchens. At Haymarket square in which was once the old brewery district, they gathered to hear speeches by Communist leaders.

When Charles Klein attempted to speak as another organizer was on the stand, fighting started. Police rushed the corner, clubs swinging. Individual officers were singled out by gangs and attacked.

A fleet of patrol wagons was rushed to the scene. Riot cars loaded with shotguns and machine guns were stationed nearby. Mounted police rode into the throng. Sergt. Otto Kugler was struck over the head with his own club.

Many members of the mob gathered at "workers hall," their headquarters. Fighting broke out again as a few hangers-on were taken into custody in front of the building. From their third-floor hall, Communists hung out the windows and jeered. Two squads of police fought their way upstairs and arrested nearly 30 men and one woman, Isabelle C. Hulkins, 32.

A half dozen children, found in the hall, were loaded in a squad car and taken home.

"This is the end," said Chief of Police Jacob Laubenheimer. "Heretofore we have been allowing these Communists to parade. But this is the last time."

Elsewhere in Wisconsin there were minor demonstrations. At Kenosha four men were arrested and a scheduled meeting of 600 unemployed developed into a burlesque parade and demand for "free beer."

Student Group Disrupts Wisconsin Red March

Madison, Wis., March 6 (A.P.).—"On, Wisconsin," battle hymn of the University of Wisconsin, rallied 50 students of the institution today who broke up a parade of communists and their sympathizers who sang the "Internationale," communistic anthem.

David Gordon, New York, a student who organized the communist parade, was threatened with a ducking in Lake Mendota unless the communists disbanded. After the unemployed parade had disbanded, more than 1,000 students paraded around the Capitol shouting "We want work."

New Prosecutor Selection Blocked

Judge Sellers Holds That Man Chosen for Post Is Inexperienced.

Judge Katherine Sellers, of the Juvenile Court, yesterday blocked the plan of Corporation Counsel William W. Bride to name as prosecutor in the court Raymond Sparks, who recently was named an assistant corporation counsel to succeed Richard B. Keech upon the latter's appointment as people's counsel.

Judge Sellers advised the corporation counsel that Mr. Sparks, a graduate of Georgetown University who passed his bar examinations in December, was "inexperienced as a prosecutor" and that he was not "acceptable because the work of the Juvenile Court is of such importance that only experienced prosecutors are capable of handling it."

Mr. Bride immediately cancelled the plan, in which Mr. Sparks was to have filled the position now held by Edward M. Welliver, who was to have been promoted. In view of Judge Sellers' protest, Mr. Welliver will remain at his present duties and Mr. Sparks will be assigned to Police Court in a temporary arrangement.

but met with resistance as the Communists attempted to break through.

Part of the demonstrators turned and stormed the police stronghold and fighting between police and Communists broke out all over the plaza in Seventeenth street.

Mounted policemen repulsed the attack on the headquarters, where Commissioner Whalen was wielding a nightstick along with his men. The Communists used clubs, paving blocks and other weapons.

When the crowd broke up the side streets, mounted policemen and the motorcycles kept in pursuit and the square was quickly cleared and the fighting soon ended.

CHICAGO MARCHERS JEER AT CHURCHES

SANCTIONED BY POLICE

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—Under passive police chaperonage, 10,000 jobless, Communists and sympathizers, led by four young girls, paraded peaceably through the West Side today. The demonstration was sanctioned by a police permit and not one arrest was made.

Three times the long line came to a momentary halt, twice in front of Roman Catholic institutions where the marchers booed. A third time the paraders stopped to scramble for food when some one produced a box of buns.

Before the Holy Family Church the throng paused to utter catcalls, but a priest emerging from the church, Bible in hand, strode calmly through the demonstrators unmolested.

Police had issued authority for the marchers to parade about eight miles through flop-house and industrial districts, but a move on the downtown loop was forbidden. The permit was respected, and the only downtown incident was the presentation of a petition bearing "fourteen points" by a committee of 15 which called at the mayor's office and was met by an assistant corporation counsel. The petition was referred to the judiciary committee of the City Council by Mayor Thompson later in the day.

Deputy Commissioner John Stege, Chief of Detectives Egan and several officers marshalled the paraders into a line which moved at 11 a. m. as police lined the route. Two blocks before the scheduled finish the procession was diverted to a vacant lot where leaders of the demonstration harangued the crowd.

Then a speaker said: "The parade's over. Go to your homes." And as the crowd began to scatter some one shouted, good naturedly, "When do we eat?"

Orderly Demonstration Staged by Denver Reds

Denver, March 6 (A.P.).—Addressed by self-styled communists, an orderly demonstration was held here today by a crowd estimated at about 300 men in connection with the world-wide communist demonstration. Mounted police hemmed in the crowd. Frequent reference was made by the speakers to the unemployment situation.

Banners and placards borne by the crowd read "Work or Wages," "No Eviction for Nonpayment of Rent," "Defend the Soviet Union," "Down With Imperialism," and "Be a Fighter in the Class Struggle."

FISTS SWING FREELY AT BOSTON MEETING

Red Secretary Is Arrested as 5,000 Rush Toward Statehouse.

POLICE CHARGE CROWD

Boston, March 6 (A.P.).—Scenes of disorder involving thousands of persons, a march on the Massachusetts Statehouse and the arrest of nine persons marked international unemployment day in Boston.

Representatives of the Communist party and the Young Communists League were addressing a mass meeting that drew 5,000 persons to the Parkman Bandstand on Boston Common when Jackson Wales, secretary of the Communist party in Boston, engaged in a fist fight with a man who he thought was heckling the speakers.

Wales was arrested and then the greater part of the crowd, led by Roy Stevens, an organizer for the Communist party, swept across the common toward the statehouse. A hundred policemen met the crowd at Beacon and Park streets. Traffic was blocked. Stevens and a few others tried to struggle up the statehouse steps to speak. They were arrested. Fists swung freely. Policemen, mounted, on foot and carrying ropes charged the crowd, swept the streets clear and restored order.

State police patrolmen, mustered within the statehouse grounds, aided in repelling the onslaught. State senators and representatives who ventured onto a balcony to watch the clash were unceremoniously ordered indoors by the statehouse guards.

Six of the nine persons arrested were taken into custody during the clash in front of the capitol. After all had been lodged in cells in a nearby police station, police found that they were being led in singing by three young men perched on a fire escape in an adjacent alley.

St. Louis Unemployed Are Allowed to March

St. Louis, March 6 (A.P.).—A group of about 150 unemployed men, boys and girls marched in orderly manner through the downtown district to the City Hall at noon today.

Several speeches demanding employment were made without interruption, but 50 policemen were on hand to watch proceedings.

Woman Speaker Is Held In Columbus Outbreak

Columbus, Ohio, March 6 (A.P.).—Rose Clark, 24, Columbus, was arrested today when she attempted to address 1,000 unemployed who gathered in the heart of the city for observance of "unemployment day."

There was no further disorder.

Wife of Buffalo Museum Artist Mysteriously Slain

Mrs. Clotilde Marchand Found Dead in Home After Attack With Sharp Instrument; Police Seek Unnamed Woman for Questioning.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 6 (A.P.).—Mrs. Clotilde Marchand, wife of Henry Marchand, famous artist of the Buffalo Museum of Natural Sciens, was slain, apparently by a woman, in her home on Riley street this afternoon. Mrs. Marchand was 50 years old and herself an artist of some note.

Mrs. Marchand had been struck on the head with a sharp instrument and indications were that the killer had seized her by the throat and attempted to chloroform her. Marks on the body and swollen knuckles indicated she had fought her assailant desperately. There were three deep wounds on her head.

Finger marks on Mrs. Marchand's neck, Medical Examiner De Dominicis believes, were made by the slender finger nails of a woman.

Although the police refused to admit having any tangible clue it was learned that they were seeking an unnamed woman for questioning in the case.

JOBLESS IN DETROIT MASS FOR WILD RIOT

14 in Hospitals, 31 Arrested After Chaotic Disorders Near City Hall.

SHOW WINDOWS CRASH

Detroit, Mich., March 6 (A.P.).—Downtown Detroit was turned into a battle ground between police and unemployed this afternoon.

In a series of disorders, starting at 1 p. m. and continuing until well past 3 p. m., 14 persons were sent to hospitals with injuries from policemen's night sticks, while 31 others, alleged agitators and sympathizers, were arrested. None of the injuries was serious. Seven women and 24 men were arrested.

Considerable damage was suffered by stores on Woodward avenue when the crush of the crowd crashed in show windows and carried away doors. The police estimated the crowd at almost 100,000 persons.

The disorders, which at first centered about the Campus Martius and Cadillac Square where the city hall is situated, soon spread up Woodward avenue and into numerous intersecting streets as the crowd swelled and 2,000 police attempted to stop speeches and the displaying of placards.

Fire Break Out.

The demonstration started as the city hall clock sounded 1 p. m., when, as if by an agreed signal, a group of men in front of the Majestic Building unfurled placards bearing the words "work or wages." A detail of police swooped down on the group and attempted to wrest the placards from them. Numerous clubbings occurred in the clash and one patrolman was struck by a lead pipe hurled by one of the group.

The disorders spread up Woodward avenue as far north as Grand Circus Park. The police ordered street cars and buses to keep moving up and down Woodward avenue to keep the crowd broken up.

Two small fires breaking out in the basement of downtown stores while the disorders were going on brought fire apparatus to the scene and added to the confusion.

Society Woman Intervenes.

As the crowd moved slowly away from the scene of the initial demonstration a new disorder was precipitated when a group of girls on Woodward avenue unfurled additional placards. A detail of mounted police swept down on the group and arrested one girl. The crowd essayed a rescue but was driven off.

Groups of agitators played tag with the police by climbing up light poles and delivering impromptu speeches. When the officers arrived they fled to other poles and continued their exhortations.

Mrs. Betty Graves Reyneau, a New York artist and society woman, who attempted to intercede in behalf of a man who was grappling with a policeman, was arrested but later released. She said the policeman had the man down and was beating him with his night stick. Mrs. Reyneau, a former Detroiter, is a granddaughter of the late Chief Justice Benjamin Franklin Graves, of the Michigan Supreme Court. She was arrested for picketing the White House in 1917.

Policeman Pleads Not Guilty on Auto Charge

Arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of reckless driving, Policeman Luther E. Cline, of the Second Precinct, pleaded not guilty and demanded a trial by jury. He was released on bond of $100.

Cline was arrested Tuesday night by Policeman Miles Znamanacek, of the Traffic Bureau, after an alleged 50-mile-an-hour chase through Georgetown. The policeman also is alleged to have refused to obey Znamanacek's command to halt. Cline, however, is said to deny all the allegations.

Policeman Enters Plea of Not Guilty

Arrested With Two Friends and Is Charged With Rum Violation.

Thirteenth Precinct Policeman Thomas Henry Hook, 24 years old, of Mount Rainier, Md., and two companions, who were arrested Wednesday night on liquor charges, pleaded not guilty and waived hearing when arraigned yesterday in Police Court and were ordered held for action of the grand jury under the Jones act. Bonds of $2,000 were assessed.

Those held jointly with the policeman are Paul Kyle, 24 years old, and Richard Johnson, 25 years old, both of Allison street northwest, near Georgia avenue.

Detective R. J. Barrett, of the Fourth Precinct, reported to Assistant United States Attorney David Aiken Hart that he arrested the trio at an automobile parked in front of a residence on B street southwest, near Third street. The automobile contained 60 gallons of whisky, the report stated. Hook was suspended by Lieut. F. M. Dent, of the Fourth Precinct, immediately after he had been booked at that stationhouse on the liquor charge.

Wife Reported Missing Disputes It to Post

Mrs. Elsie M. Hawkins, 22 years old, whose husband reported her missing from their Brentwood, Md., home, yesterday walked into the editorial offices of The Post and asserted that her husband, Frederick Hawkins, was mistaken when he informed the police she was missing.

Mrs. Hawkins said she knew of no reason why Mr. Hawkins asked police to search for her, as she had never stayed away overnight.

Quartet of Speakers Arrested in Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., March 6 (A.P.).—Four Communist speakers were arrested today after they refused to leave Lafayette square, where a Red demonstration had been planned.

Police forbade the gathering in front of the Soldiers and Sailors Monument, and the bulk of the crowd marched in orderly manner to Niagara square. A fifth man was arrested charged with attempting to relieve a policeman of his stick.

San Francisco Police Chief Greets Jobless Cordially

Parade Winds Up in Get-Together Meeting; 1,000 Clash With Seattle Authorities and Situation Is Tense in Other Cities.

San Francisco, March 6 (A.P.).—While police and 1,000 demonstrating unemployed persons clashed in Seattle today and tense situations prevailed in other Pacific Coast cities the authorities in San Francisco "stole the show" in the protest pageant there.

Seattle mounted police rode into a crowd of banner bearing marchers and with the aid of their batons forced the demonstrators to disperse and arrested 12. No one was hurt seriously.

In Los Angeles, seven alleged communists were arrested as a crowd of 1,500 persons gathered for a proposed march on the city hall where a riot occurred recently. The crowd proposed to demand "work or wages" at the city hall. After arresting the leaders police said they expected no further trouble.

In Oakland 400 or more unemployed marched on the city hall, where Chief of Police Donald L. Marshall met them and warned against violence. One woman, Sonia Baltrum, spoke demanding assistance from the city. When Archie Brown, often jailed for communistic activities, tried to talk he was suppressed by the chief. It was agreed that a committee of five representing the demonstrators should call on the city council and outline their grievances. This was done and investigation was promised.

In San Francisco 2,000 or more persons bearing banners denouncing capitalism, police brutality and numerous other things, started out on a serious mission, but it wound up in a get-together meeting at the civic center.

En route to the City Hall, Chief of Police William J. Quinn drove up in his car and stopped beside the leader of the march. Getting out of his car, the chief greeted the marchers cordially and posed with the leaders for photographers. After marching a short distance the chief got back into his car and drove away.

At the City Hall the marchers were received by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., on the platform built for the occasion. Here, after hearing representatives of the unemployed demand assistance from the city council, the mayor made an address of welcome and assured them the council would be asked to act on plans for relief already inaugurated.

The platform was draped with an American flag to which the mayor referred in his talk and assured the demonstrators and several thousand others who had gathered that this was the best country on earth. A representative was named to appear before the city council and outline demands.

A demonstration, entirely peaceful, was held in Portland, about 2,500 persons participating. Demands similar to those voiced elsewhere were made and Mayor Baker expressed sympathy. No disorder was reported.

Communist meetings in Vancouver B. C., today, fizzled out when orators mounted on soap boxes in a park and faced an audience of not more than 400, more than half of whom were police and reserves.

The agitators bore banners proclaiming their political faith, but none ventured out of the park, where Chief of Police W. J. Bingham said they could meet. A bedraggled red flag hung on a nearby fence.

AGED WOMAN IS KILLED

Kosciousko, Miss., March 6 (A.P.).—Mrs. J. W. Adams, 65, was killed and two Negro farm tenants were injured in a tornado which struck the Adams plantation, 5 miles north of Kosciusko, late today. The Adams home was leveled and most of it blown away, and the home of E. S. Randolph, nearby, unroofed and his barn demolished.

Boyle, Miss., March 6 (A.P.).—Ten were injured, one severely, in a tornado which ripped through the O'Neal plantation and adjoining farm lands near the village of Skene late today, destroying a dozen tenant houses, wrecking the home of the plantation manager and leveling trees and telegraph poles.

Mrs. James C. Henderson, wife of the manager of the plantation, was seriously hurt. James Alvin Henderson, 15, a son; a 3-year-old daughter, and Hardin and Margaret Musgrove also were injured, but not seriously.

The others injured were Negro tenant farmers. Their injuries were reported as not serious.

The storm cut a swath about 800 feet wide, traveling in a southeasterly direction, crossing the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railway tracks about a quarter of a mile north of Boyle. Mrs. Henderson and her two children were caught under the tumbling timbers of the farm dwelling.

Augusta, Ark., March 6 (A.P.).—Five persons were injured, two seriously, when the Town of Gregory, near here, tonight was struck by a small tornado. Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Melson, and Mrs. Melson's sister, Miss Mansco, and two Negro women were those reported hurt. The two Negro women were in a serious condition.

The Methodist church and two Negro churches, a mercantile establishment, four large dwelling and fifteen tenant houses were demolished.

John Eldridge, plantation owner, estimated property damage in the path of the storm at $30,000.

Gregory is a village of about 200 persons.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

SPEAKING of pests, the modern Black Plague or twentieth century form of the Big Blight is the individual who audibly eats peanuts in a motion picture theater.

The thing should be barred by law, with the lightest penalty a lingering, long-drawn-out and agonizing death in boiling oil.

You seat yourself comfortably in the theater and, having paid your good money for the show, you are settling to its charm when suddenly, one row behind and two chairs to your right, there springs up such a wheezing, crackling, hissing mouthing and grinding noise that you instinctively dodge, figuring that a tornado is coming down the aisle.

But, having heard the outrageous and nerve-wracking commotion before, you soon realize that the serenading peanut eater is loose again.

* * * *

THE din is terrific. It is like hitting every note on an infernal organ or an imitation of the sizzling and searing of victims offered up to the gods of fire. It begins with a rapid crescendo, like a squirrel gone mad with hydrophobic rage over an ivory nut.

It grows in volume and variety of sound. It is like the churning of windswept waters, the shrieking of the rigging, the sullen mutter of the breakers on a stormbound coast.

As the fellow's fiendish and incessant enjoyment of his ill-timed meal progresses, the pandemonium issuing from his macerating jaws and muscular mouth becomes a magnified combination of Ulysses' cave of the winds, the cries of a Roman mob, the yells of the Byzantine soldiery and the galloping of Macedonian cavalry.

You suffer in silence. You squirm, wriggle and writhe. You lose track of the play. You miss half of the dialogue. You turn and, transfixing the loutish and torturing felon with a disdainful glare, try to stare him into a state of imbecile and cringing shame.

* * * *

BUT no such fate overtakes him. He does not miss a stroke in the devilish din of his whistling and soughing chewing or a movement of the piston-like wrist with which he tosses with amazing rapidity new provender into the maw of that machine of agony. He conveys the idea that he knows how insufferably he annoys all those near him. He glories in his crime, and eats and eats and eats peanuts as if to win a wager!

By this time you are a nervous, shivering and whimpering wreck. You don't care if you hear and see no more of the picture. You don't care if you never darken the doors of another theater. You go swiftly and completely mad. You tense your muscles, you rise half-way from your seat. You will murder the scoundrel and substitute for his horrible mouthings the musical drip-drip of his heart's blood as his life ebbs away! then——

Then, two rows behind you and three seats to your left, another peanut eater opens up, and in the hellish uproar of their concerted gormandizing you laugh a harsh, grating, loud, contemptuous laugh, while hoping that they both choke to death.

DRY LAW UPHELD BY SOCIETY LEADER AT COMMITTEE QUIZ

sociation of Catholics Favoring Prohibition, and C. P. Connolly, of East Orange, N. J., former prosecuting attorney of Butte, Mont., and magazine writer. In addition Representative Burtness, Republican, North Dakota, presented a statement from prominent North Dakotans, contradicting the charge of Pierce Blewett, a farmer of that State, who testified to the House committee that prohibition had ruined many grain growers.

During the hearing, Representative Celler (Democrat), New York, issued an invitation to Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army to appear before the committee to discuss her organization's problems with young liquor drinkers. Throughout the hearing the wet members of the committee closely questioned the witnesses about their claims of prohibition's benefits to the various social classes and the farmers. Mr. Callahan said he thought the middle classes had benefited from prohibition, while the "dregs and the smart set" had suffered. In the hearing Wednesday dry witnesses contended that the "under privileged" class was a great beneficiary of prohibition.

Strawbridge Poll.

American high society was represented by Mrs. Strawbridge as considering serving of liquor at social entertainments "an unutterable nuisance and their only anxiety was as to how most effectually free themselves and their families of it."

Her testimony was based, she said, on replies to a poll she conducted among society matrons after conferring with, and largely under the influence of, former Chief Justice William Howard Taft. Out of 2,330 women approached, she said, 1,337 favored obeying the law while only 247 disapproved.

She opened her argument by reading a letter she had addressed to "women of the so-called better class or social set" and those prominent in civic affairs in and about Philadelphia to show their sportsmanship for law enforcement and in support of prohibition.

Atterbury Is Scored.

The letter referred to the example set by Mrs. Edward B. McLean, of Washington, at an Easter breakfast, at which no alcoholic beverages were served.

"I have every reason to believe," the letter in part said, "that her courage in making this innovation in Washington society met with the hearty approval of President Hoover and of all others, like himself, who are trying to inculcate in our people at this time a more lively sense of their individual obligations as American citizens."

She characterized Mr. Atterbury's testimony favoring repeal as "utterly unsportsmanlike and unworthy a leader of public opinion." She termend Mr. du Pont a private prohibitionist "in his own gun powder plant and publicly an antiprohibitionist for himself and his motor driving friends."

Name Not Mentioned.

After arguing that the farmer was immeasurably better off under prohibition, as a result of better markets and prices for almost all his products, Taber said it was "indefensible for the president of a great railroad to advocate nullification and the return of the saloon."

Without mentioning by name either Mr. Atterbury or Mr. du Pont, Taber said "an auomobile manufacturer placed himself in a ridiculous position of advocating intoxicating liquors when every one recognizes that as drunken drivers on the highways increase, the use of automobiles must decline."

Taber said the reason why the liquor traffic would never return to America was the automobile. Asserting that it was evident that the eighteenth amendment would not be repealed and the saloon would not return in any form, the farm leader said the Government would not be forced into the liquor business. He predicted the next Congress would have a dryer membership than the present.

"Vicious Propaganda" Hit.

Setting out to clear up an impression which he said was prevalent that there was a difference of opinion between Catholics and Protestants on the prohibition question, Callahan declared this had been fostered by "vicious and insidious propaganda by the liquor people."

An assertion by Callahan that prohibition had saved the lives of 100,000 Americans met expressions of disbelief on the part of several wet members of the committee, particularly after the figures from the Census Bureau were analyzed by the questioners to show that since prohibition the number of deaths from alcoholism had again begun a steady increase. The witness, however, contended that the peak was reached three years ago.

The great majority of the American people would not permit repeal of the dry laws until it had had "a white man's fighting chance," Connolly declared, after presenting figures which he said showed lawlessness in America was not a product of prohibition but had existed for several decades.

LaGuardia Quizzes Witness.

The witness became involved in a lengthy discussion with Chairman Graham, of the committee, and Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, which ended after Representative Michener (Republican), Michigan, suggested that LaGuardia "rent a hall" to finish the "debate."

"My answer to that," LaGuardia replied, "is that thousands of citizens of New York elected me to come down here to do my duty and I am going to do it."

Under questioning by LaGuardia, Connolly said he "would hate to see the country give in but, if the dry law is found impossible of enforcement, I would repeal or modify it."

Patrols on Borders.

Asked by LaGuardia whether he would favor employment of 100,000 Federal officers to patrol the borders and the interior in order to make prohibition effective, the witness replied:

"That is hard to say. The great majority will not stand for repeal until they see that the law has had a white man's fighting change. But, we have not had a fair fight for it yet."

Connolly, while agreeing that graft was responsible for much of the failure in law enforcement, would not agree with LaGuardia that it was a "creature of prohibition" and insisted that it had existed in the saloon days.

"You can not run a speak-easy, you can not smuggle a shipment of liquor across the border," LaGuardia said, "without the knowledge and connivance of officials."

"Greed has so contaminated the police of all the cities of the country that they can not do their duty."

Not Oppressive Law.

"No," said Connolly, "it is the politicians behind them who collect the graft."

The witness insisted that modification of the Volstead act would put the Government in a position to "go on down the line retreating before lawlessness."

"Isn't history of the world one long series of retreats away from oppressive laws?" asked LaGuardia.

"That's another matter," Connolly replied. "I don't agree that this is an oppressive law."

ARRIVAL OF FRENCH AIDS NAVAL PARLEY

Conference Can Now Move On; British Announce Cut in Fleet Estimate.

MORE CRITICS APPEAR

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 6 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—With the arrival in London tonight of the French delegation, headed by Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and Minister of Marine Jacques-Louis Dumesnil, the maimed five-power naval conference is again whole and problems left untouched for nearly three weeks can now be tackled.

Developments today included:

Announcement by First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander of a cut of $20,000,000 in the British naval estimates for this year as against last year, subject to a possible supplementary vote which he said the government will ask Parliament for if the results of this conference render additions to the program in 1930 necessary.

Public criticism here against the British delegation and the conference of work in general, hitherto confined to former Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill's attacks from the right, commenced today from the political center and left. Among other moves, strong resolutions were passed by the League of Nations Union executive demanding that no new battleships bigger than 10,000 tons be built and expressing anxiety lest there be an increase in world naval expenditure.

French Firm on Big Submarines.

The subcommittee dealing with submarines, attempting to reach an agreement on the size of these craft, was faced by a French demand for superaubmarines up to 3,000 tons. Great Britain and Italy agreed on 1,800 tons as the maximum size for submersibles. Japan suggested that 2,000 tons be the limit in size.

The trades union congress objected to the government against any further cutting down in ship building owing to the unemployment which would be caused.

In connection with the naval estimates, First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander, in an accompanying statement, summarized cancellations in the programs of 1928 and 1929 as three cruisers mounting 8-inch guns, one small cruiser, five submarines and three small ships, while the revised 1929 program now consists of one 6-in.-gun cruiser, one destroyer leader, four destroyers, four sloops and one tender.

Charges that the estimates made public today have been "cooked" to create a favorable conference atmosphere are made in some quarters in the House of Commons, both by extreme Labor partisans and by High Tories; but examination does not substantiate these except, of course, that the present slowing down is admittedly done for the sake of the conference.

Mathematical Paralysis Produced.

Secretary of State Stimson's statement yesterday, claiming a reduction of 200,000 tons in the United States fleet if the agreement with Great Britain can be maintained, has produced mathematical paralysis among correspondents and experts, who have turned out masses of figures, most of them conflicting. The Secretary of State has the example of Great Britain to cite, if attacked, and especially of France, who included in her tables many vessels on the rocks.

But there is a general feeling that the Americans have at least held their own with M. Tardieu by this performance and that not merely pre-Jutland, but also pre-Santiago ships are being resurrected from the mudbanks to help figure against the 400,000 tons of new tonnage, costing nearly $1,000,000,000 to which the United States will be committed under the parity agreement before 1936, with more to follow if Great Britain hoists her figures on account of France. There this subject may be left, but it should be known that not all members of the American delegation approved Stimson's statement claiming reduction.

The resolution adopted by the League of Nations Union today, addressed to the prime minister, was prepared under the chairmanship of Lord Robert Cecil and its recommendation to insist on 10,000-ton battleships was reached after a committee of five admirals had sat, including Vice Admiral Richmond.

Statement Held Important.

This organization has 924,000 members and on its executive are former conservative ministers as well as eminent nonpolitical citizens, its pronouncements represent an important section of opinion.

The League of Nations Union ventured to give the United States a strong hint in this resolution when it not only demanded pocket battleships, but also declared "a principal condition of success" (in the attempt to bring about disarmament' is that every State, when attacked, should not have to rely on itself alone, but on "organized collective action."

The resolution, behind which the hand of Lord Robert Cecil is seen, thus boiled down to advice to the United States to take some part in a guarantee pact and abandon opposition to little battleships.

Premier MacDonald, it was reported after the arrival of the French delegation, intends to make a strong plea to M. Briand tomorrow for haste on the ground that if the main work of the conference is not finished by early April he will find himself in a fight for his government's life and will be unable to give a suitable amount of time to naval questions.

Gas Firm's Writer Is Group Witness

Aid to American Electric Company Tells of His Publicity Work.

(Associated Press.)

A former employe of the American Gas & Electric Co. testified before the Federal Trade Commission yesterday that he had participated in "about 100 cases" in which municipal ownership of public utilities was concerned.

The witness in the utilities inquiry, Glenn Marston, now with the Utilities Publishing Co. of Chicago, said he had worked for the American Gas for nearly two years, handling the company's house organ and distributing clip sheets to division managers who "used their discretion" about delivering them to newspapers.

Other witnesses, as the commission continued its investigation of the American Gas and its subsidiaries, were L. Boyd Hatch, of New York, intermediary for the American Gas in several purchases; Carlton E. Torrey, of Canton, Ohio, general manager of the Ohio Power Co., an American Gas subsidiary; Harold M. Sawyer, of New York, a vice president of the American Gas and some of its subsidiaries, and Herbert Markle, of Bluefield, W. Va., division manager of the Appalachian Power Co., another American Gas subsidiary.

$450,000,000 in Notes To Be Offered for Sale

(Associated Press).

Secretary Mellon yesterday announced the offering of an issue of 3¼ per cent Treasury certificates of indebtedness to total $450,000,000 or thereabouts.

The issue will bear the date of March 15, 1930, and mature next December 15. The offering constitutes the regular spring financing of the Treasury which will tide the Government over until the first quarter of the tax on 1929 incomes reaches the Treasury.

ONE DEAD, TRIO HURT IN MILL STRIKE RIOT

Philadelphia Shop Workers and Alleged Union Men Clash in Street.

PISTOLS FOUND IN CARS

Philadelphia, March 6 (A.P.).—One man was shot to death and three were seriously wounded tonight in a battle between employes of the H. C. Aberle Hosiery Mills and alleged members of the hosiery workers union and their sympathizers. The man killed was Carl Mackley, 23.

John Cooper, 20; William Zimmerman, 36, and James Thoney, 39, were critically wounded and physicians feared they might not recover.

A strike has been in progress at the Aberle mills for several weeks. Officials of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers declared, however, that none of the strikers from those mills had taken part in the disturbance tonight. They said that Mr. Mackley and the three wounded men were members of the union, but were employed at other mills.

The battle occurred near the Aberle mills. Workers being transported to their homes in automobiles were followed by strike sympathizers. At a street intersection the car containing Mr. Mackley and three who were wounded cut in front of those containing the Aberle workers.

The next instant the shooting began. Mr. Mackley's car was riddled with bullets. He was instantly killed Mr. Cooper was shot in the back, Mr. Zimmerman in the chest and Mr. Thoney in the head.

No one appeared to know who fired the first shot. Police asserted that on one of the cars used by the Aberle workers they had found pistol holsters strapped to the steering column.

Dry Agent's Killer Faces Indictment

Florida Murder Charges Reduced From First to Second Degree.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—George W. Moore, alleged bootlegger, who shot and killed two Federal dry agents during a raid on his home January 18 last, was indicted on two counts of second-degree murder by a circuit court grand jury here today.

Moore shot and killed Robert K. Moncure and F. R. Patterson when the agents, in company with two other dry agents, went to the Moore residence to serve a search warrant. Reduction of the charge against Moore from first degree to second degree murder takes the case from circuit court and places it in criminal court.

Moore contended at the inquest that the agents had illegally attempted to enter his home after nightfall with a search warrant permitting only daylight search. Testimony of the two surviving agents was that it was still daylight when they served the warrant, but several witnesses for the defense testified street lights were burning and that the Moore residence was lighted.

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, said that the increase in the sugar tariff benefited stockholders in the Great Western Sugar Co., of Colorado, $4,500,000 overnight.

Senator Grundy (Republican), Pennsylvania, declared that all the people using his office are on his pay roll or on that of the Government.

Confirmation of John N. Willys, of Ohio, as Ambassador to Poland, was blocked by Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, who said he objected to the attempt of Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, to obtain consideration of the nomination out of order.

Appearing before the agriculture committee, John V. A. MacMurray, former Minister to China, estimated that "hundreds of thousands" of Chinese will die from starvation, but he opposed a proposal that the Farm Board send $25,000,000 worth of wheat and flour for famine relief.

JOKER DISCOVERED IN STIMSON FIGURES

Predicted Navy Cut of 200,000 Tons Includes Ships to Be Junked Anyway.

BRITISH TO SCRAP ALSO

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Secretary Stimson's surprise statement that the net tonnage of the American naval force will be reduced by 200,000 if a tentative Anglo-American agreement prevails aroused considerable curiosity here yesterday until senators, after consultation with naval sources, found a "joker" in the surprise statement. There was no effort made to disguise the reaction of Senate leaders on both sides of the chamber when they became convinced that Mr. Stimson has either been imposed upon or has acted without knowledge of the facts when he issued his statement.

It developed during the course of the day that Mr. Stimson's 200,000 reduction includes the scrapping of obsolete ships of the United States Navy which are scheduled to be scrapped without regard to the London conference. Acting Secretary of State Cotton admitted yesterday that these old ships were included in Mr. Stimson's figures. This led to a check-up of official Navy figures.

First, the battleships Wyoming, Florida and Utah have been counted for a total net reduction of 69,900 tons. The Florida and the Utah reach the 20-year age limit next year and no longer figure as fighting ships, and the Wyoming reaches the 20-year age limit in 1932.

Cruisers Are for Sale.

Respecting cruisers, Mr. Stimson has counted ships already slated for sale by the Navy Department. The department has listed eighteen cruisers "for disposal." The aggregate tonnage of these obsolete vessels is 138,599. There are four more cruisers virtually ready for the junk heap so far as fighting efficiency is concerned and they are to be sold or disposed of, but it is not believed that they have been included by Mr. Stimson.

Respecting destroyers, the Navy Department has already decided to sell or dispose of 61 old ships which have defective boilers and are not worth repairing. The total tonnage of these vessels, according to official figures, is 63,991.

Regarding submarines, the Navy Department has ordered 45 old submarines sold by 1931. The total tonnage of these ships is 21,300. There are other ships scheduled for sale or the junk pile, including 1 monitor and 3 mine layers.

To Junk 292,980 Tons.

The total tonnage of battleships, cruisers, destroyers and submarines to be disposed of or junked according to Navy Department plans, which have no reference to any international conference, is 292,980 tons. Thus if the London conference had not been called the net tonnage reduction in the United States Navy would have been 292,980.

The understanding here is that the British reduction figures, indirectly referred to by Mr. Stimson, are based on the scrapping of obsolete British ships which would have been junked as a matter of course because they are useless as fighting machines and past the age limit. The age limit for battleships and cruisers is 20 years. The age limit for destroyers is 16 years and for submarines 13 years.

Senators note that no reference is made by Mr. Stimson to the matter of expense in connection with future building programs under the suggested tentative Anglo-American agreement. Reports have stated that a billion and a half dollars of added expense is involved in the cruiser plan and in the program which Mr. MacDonald has outlined as necessary for British purposes and which Mr. Stimson has tentatively accepted.

One-Time Favorite Of Stage Is Suicide

Christine Norman Once One of 12 Most Beautiful Women in America.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Donning for the last time her favorite jewels—a costly jade pendant and several diamond rings—Christine Norman, Broadway favorite of a generation ago, leaped to her death today from a window of the twentieth floor in the Hotel Warwick. She left six letters, one of which requested that she be buried beside her father in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Miss Norman, whom Neysa McMein, the artist, once classed as one of the twelve most beautiful women in America, was in the original companies of such productions as "Peg o' My Heart," "The Bird of Paradise" and "The Unchastened Woman."

Recently she had devoted herself to writing plays, in which, according to her estranged husband, Enos Booth, a lawyer, she achieved a fair degree of success.

Recently she had been in ill health and feared a cancer, police learned. The letters she left behind disclosed she had been contemplating suicide for a week.

HUSTON EXPLAINS POWER ACT STAND

Muscle Shoals Activities of G. O. P. Leader Given in Statement.

ATTITUDE IS DEFENDED

(Associated Press.)

Nettled over delay in getting a hearing before the Senate lobby committee, Claudius Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, issued a statement last night through the national committee's publicity bureau explaining his relationship to Muscle Shoals power legislation.

Mr. Huston said his name had been "systematically bandied around upon authority of the members of the Senate lobby committee" as a prospective witness. He complained that he had not been given an opportunity to be heard until next Tuesday to reply to testimony before the committee involving himself.

The Republican chairman said that as an officer of the Tennessee River Improvement Association he and the association had "vigorously supported the proposed lease to the American Cyanamid Co." of the Muscle Shoals property. He is a resident of Tennessee.

"I make no apologies," his statement said, "for representing the interests of my State, and I resent the attempts to connect the chairmanship of the Republican national committee with a local, nonpartisan question."

Mr. Huston said that when he was elected chairman of the Republican national committee he resigned his connectinos with the Tennessee association and had made it known to Senators McKellar and Brock, of Tennessee, that his activities in behalf of Muscle Shoals legislation must cease.

HEART ATTACK KILLS MEMBER OF HOUSE

James P. Glynn Dies on Train While Returning From Funeral.

FIRST ELECTED IN 1914

A sudden heart attack at 6 o'clock yesterday morning proved instantly fatal to Representative James P. Glynn (Republican), of Connecticut, as he was returning by train to the Capital from Huntington, W. Va., with a congressional delegation after attending the funeral of Representative J. A. Hughes, of West Virginia.

Arising early, Representative Glynn had gone to the smoking car to finish dressing before the scheduled arrival of the train here at 7:40 o'clock. He collapsed and died almost instantly in the arms of P. H. Crook, assistant sergeant at arms of the House, who was in charge of the special car.

There being no physician aboard the train, Conductor W. H. Turner telegraphed to have one meet it at Union Station. Dr. Gladding, the station surgeon, examined the body and declared death to have resulted from a heart affliction. The body was taken in an Emergency Hospital ambulance to the Zurhorst undertaking parlors at 301 East Capitol street.

It was reported that Representative Glynn, who was 63 years old, had been suffering from heart disease for some time.

Was Born in 1865.

His home was at Winsted, Conn., where he was born on November 12, 1865. After serving continuously since the Sixty-fourth Congress he had again been elected to serve in the Seventy-first.

After being educated in the public schools at Winsted, Mr. Glynn was admitted to the Connecticut bar in 1895. His political career began in 1893 when he was made town clerk, an office he held for ten years, during a part of which time he served also as prosecuting attorney for the town court.

From 1902 until 1914, when he was elected to Congress, Mr. Glynn was postmaster at Winsted. His only assignment during the present Congress was as a member of the committee on military affairs, on which he served for several years.

Widow, Brothers Survive.

Representative Glynn is survived by his widow. The couple had no children. They made their residence at the Driscoll Hotel here. He is also survived by two brothers, Dr. Thomas Glynn and William Glynn, both of Winstead. The body is to be sent to that city for burial.

There were twelve members of the House, including Representative Glynn, in the congressional party which had attended the funeral to Huntington on Wednesday. Several members of the group were in the smoking car when Mr. Glynn was stricken.

The Senate recessed at 5 o'clock yesterday, until today, suspending its night session out of respect to Mr. Glynn's memory.

Ileana's Engagement Rift Is Made Official by Court

Rupture of the engagement of Princess Ileana, of Roumania, and Count Alexander von Hochberg, of Germany, made official by announcement of Roumanian court issued last night in Bucharest.

German Count Deemed Unsuitable Match for Princess.

Bucharest, Roumania, March 6 (A.P.).—The Roumanian court tonight officially announced the rupture of the engagement between Princess Ileana and Count Alexander von Hochberg. The court chamberlain published the following communique:

"Princess Ileana, with the consent of Queen Marie and the regency council, has decided no longer to countenance the project of her marriage with Count Alexander von Hochberg."

News of the rift between the couple, whose engagement had been announced by the princess herself about two months ago, became public last month when they separated coldly at the station as the count left for a visit with his mother in France.

The government conducted an investigation into his antecedents in Germany, and the court decided he was not a suitable match for the princess.

LOBBY COMMITTEE QUIZZES SENATOR GRUNDY ON OFFICES

Senator Moses Speaks.

Senator George Moses, who has charge of the allotment of senatorial office space, arose and in his inimitable way said he had looked into the reports by virtue of his responsibility and was ready to make report.

Senator Grundy, he said, like all "freshman" senators, wanted an additional office to the ordinary two rooms on the grounds that his colleague, Senator Reed, was in Europe, and double duty devolved upon him. Senator Moses said he thought Senator Grundy's point was well taken and he gave him as an additional room the one that had been fixed up during the Wilson-Vare contest. This extra room was arranged at the time by partitioning it out of a big room. He had learned, Senator Moses continued, that it was a bona fide senatorial office and not the headquarters of the tariff lobbyists.

Who Is Faubel?

Some time later Senator Grundy came into the chamber and said that Senator Moses had been quite right. He and Senator Harrison had a most pleasant chat, Mr. Grundy saying he was glad Mr. Harrison had brought the matter up and Mr. Harrison assuring him that it was a most pleasant task, indeed. They both started to take their seats when Senator Caraway came running up with a slip of paper in his hand.

"Who is Arthur L. Faubel?" he asked.

Senator Grundy identified him and insisted that he was not a part of his staff, but that he came to the office as a visitor, which he had a right to do. Similarly, he identified and classified Mr. Lerch, Mr. Caraway remarking after each, incidentally, that they probably visited all day. Then this colloquy occurred:

Questions and Answers.

Mr. Caraway—Who is Warren F. Doane?

Mr. Grundy—Warren F. Doane is the editor of the Manufacturer, a publication of the Manufacturers Club in Philadelphia.

Mr. Caraway—It is the journal of the American Tariff League, is it not?

Mr. Grundy—Oh, no; absolutely not. It has no connection with it.

Mr. Caraway—It is a Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association journal?

Mr. Grundy—No, no.

Mr. Caraway—Does the senator say it is an independent journal?

Mr. Grundy—It is an independent journal published by the Manufacturers Club of Philadelphia.

Mr. Caraway—Absolutely; and this man, Mr. Doane, is the hired editor?

Mr. Grundy—He is the hired editor.

Mr. Caraway—Has he been staying in this room in the Senate Office Building?

Room at Hotel.

Mr. Grundy—He has headquarters in the Lafayette Hotel.

Mr. Caraway—I am not talking about where his headquarters are. Has he been staying in this room in the Senate Office Building?

Mr. Grundy—No; he is in town part of his time, and his room is in the Lafayette Hotel. He comes to my offices when I want him to come there, to consult with him.

Mr. Caraway—He has been principally staying there, has he not?

Mr. Grundy—Oh, no; he visits there when I want him to come to my offices.

Mr. Caraway—That is every day, is it not?

Mr. Grundy—No; not at all.

There was general surprise that Mr. Grundy should have handled the situation this way. He came so prominently into public eye because of his blunt candor and frankness, but then Senators Caraway and Harrison would probably make any man get tongue-tied.

The committee quite naturally wants to focus the light on Mr. Grundy because he is looked upon as the mainspring in the high tariff influences that are threatening the bill in these last days of its consideration, the various trades and reports of trades are rightly or wrongly credited with revolving around him.

Incidentally, Senator Moses' explanation of how Mr. Grundy came to get that extra office did not set well with Senator Cutting, Senator Grundy's senior in point of service. He said he had been trying to get one for two years. Extra offices, while obtained by some senators heretofore, of course, are right hard to get, which is to Mr. Grundy's credit, of course.

11 WOMEN IN PANEL FOR DOHENY'S TRIAL

First Group of Talesmen to Be Examined Monday for Jury Duty.

JUSTICE HITZ TO PRESIDE

Eleven women are on the first panel of jurors which is scheduled to be examined Monday in District of Columbia Supreme Court when efforts are begun to select the jury to try Edward L. Since Justice Hitz will preside over the Doheny trial his jurors will be first called. If attorneys are unsuccessful in obtaining a jury from that panel the panels serving in other branches will be examined.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

FAIR miss meet new spring season with enthusiasm in her smartly flared frock.

It is of navy blue wool crepe, with pin dots in vivid red shade. The collar rolled into revers is of matching red crepe. The scarf tie that is passed through a bound opening chooses navy blue faille silk crepe.

The circular flaring skirt especially appeals to the little miss of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It's quite unique with its deep round scallops that emphasizes the smooth fitting hipline of the long-waisted bodice.

You'll like Style No. 8158 because it is extremely easy to make. The bodice has just two major parts—a front and back to be seamed at sides and shoulders. The circular skirt is in two sections.

It makes up very attractively in linen in Lanvin green shade with the tie of yellow linen, with short sleeves, as in back view.

Red and white printed pique with collar of white pique with tie of navy blue faille crepe is smart.

Checked gingham in orchid and white with white pique collar and tie, orange-red linen with black silk tie, printed wool challis in French blue tones and wool jersey in soft brown shade with beige collar and brown silk tie dotted in beige are very effective combinations.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO. 33.

Various penalties are imposed by the statute for failure to file a return and pay the tax on time, and for making a fraudulent return. Distinction is made between failure and "willful failure" to file a return. For failure to file a return on time, the penalty is 25 per cent of the amount of the tax, unless a return is later filed and it is satisfactorily shown to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that such failure was due to a reasonable cause and not to willful neglect. If a taxpayer exercised ordinary business care and prudence, and nevertheless was unable to file a return within the prescribed time, the delay is due to a "reasonable cause."

For willful failure to make a return the penalty is not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, and in addition 25 per cent of the amount of the tax. For willfully making a false or fraudulent return, the penalty is not more than $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, and in addition 50 per cent of the amount of the tax.

FUNDS FOR PALESTINE

Jewish leaders from all sections of the country are expected here today preparatory to the national conference of the allied Jewish campaign in the Washington Hotel tomorrow and Sunday, at which plans will be made to raise $6,000,000 in 1930 for the joint distribution committee and the Jewish Agency for Palestine.

Of this amount $3,500,000 will be paid over to the distribution committee to continue reconstructive work for millions of Jews in eastern Europe while $2,500,000 will be used by the Jewish Agency for Palestine toward restoring the national home for Jewish people.

Orthodox and reform Jews, Zionists and non-Zionists, Socialists and capitalists are all cooperating in this movement and scores of messages wishing success to the campaign have been received at the headquarters here. Among those wiring good will are Prof. Albert Einstein, Oskar Wasserman, Dr. Meyer H. Hildesheimer, of Germany; Nathan Straus, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, and Felix M. Warburg.

Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, chairman of the reception committee, will welcome delegates at the opening session tomorrow with the invocation being pronounced by Dr. Abram Simon. Rosenberg, president of the American Society for Jewish Farm Settlements in Russia, and James Marshall, of the joint distribution committee's executive committee.

Conductor Seeks $30,000 Damages

Trolley Employe Claims Heart Was Affected in Auto Crash.

A collision between a street car and an automobile last May 2 at Twenty-ninth street and Dumbarton avenue northwest yesterday resulted in the filing of a $30,000 damage suit against the owner of the motor vehicle.

The suit was brought by Oscar J. Estep, a conductor of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., living at 649 G street northeast. Ervine H. Wine, said to be in the moving and hauling business at 1333 Madison street northwest, is named as defendant.

Mr. Estep, through Attorney H. W. Kelly, tells the District Supreme Court that the motor vehicle rammed the street car, and that he was pinned between the auto radiator and the coin box of his car. He asserts that he was rendered unconscious by the crash and that his heart has been affected.

NEW TANGLES LOOM FOR FOX FINANCES

Stockholders Uphold Film Head, but Sale of Securities Offers Problem.

COURT FIGHT PROBABLE

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—New legal knots have formed, in the opinion of interested attorneys, to complicate the solution of the financial troubles of the Fox Motion Picture companies, whose stockholders today supported William Fox in plans to avert a receivership.

The recapitalization plan to raise $60,000,000 to meet pressing claims was approved by stockholders of both the Fox Film Corporation and the Fox Theaters Corporation. The result of the voting was announced at adjourned meetings today.

While the underwriting syndicate composed of Bancamerica-Blair, Dillon, Read & Co., and Lehman Brothers announced they would proceed with sale of securities to raise the money, trustees and creditors questioned the legality of the procedure and prepared new moves to defeat the plan.

Actions in both Federal and State courts and settlement of legal questions raised by opponents of the bankers' plan loomed tonight as barriers which must be hurdled to effect financial rehabilitation of the concerns.

Adjourning overnight to permit counting of the ballots, both corporations held short meetings today to hear the results, which, as predicted, gave the bankers' plan a big majority. Stockholders of the film corporation voted 564,577 class A shares out of 820,660, and 93,745 out of 99,900 class B for the plan. Of the 1,583,000 class A shares of the theaters company, 987,516 favored the plan, and 100,000 class B, the total outstanding, was voted for the plan.

vivors, homeless and penniless, patrol river banks looking for drowned relatives and discover bodies of those dear to them in the mud or beneath the ruins of their own homes.

Many peasants trapped by the swift rise of the flood took refuge in tree tops, where they were condemned—men, women and children—to remain for hours before they could be rescued by soldiers in motorboats.

Towns Have No Electric Light.

There is no electric light in the devastated region, so at night the flooded countryside is one vast blotch of inky blackness. The silence hanging over it is broken only by moans of villagers over the catastrophe, which in a few hours has swept away the results of their life work. Several who have lost everything in the flood have committed suicide.

Miles of roads and railway tracks have been washed away and scores of bridges destroyed. It will be months before normal communications can be restored, railroad companies say.

The government has taken the situation firmly in hand. Troops everywhere, after organizing rescue work, are now rushing foodstuffs to towns and villages which have been completely cut off from all sources of supply. The population in flooded areas is still being fed from boats, but there is no danger of serious privation of the necessities of life.

Fete Responsibility Disclaimed by Pastor

The Rev. Thomas G. Smyth, pastor of the Blessed Sacrament Church, Chevy Chase, yesterday disclaimed any connection with or responsibility for the entertainment which had been announced for March 19, at the Bellevue Hotel, for the benefit of the Blessed Sacrament School.

Father Smyth said he did not know the young women who were planning the entertainment and that neither the church nor school has anything to do with it.

FIVE ARE ACQUITTED IN WIGGINS KILLING

Jury Out Less Than an Hour in Trial of Alleged Slayers of Woman Worker.

ALL TEXTILE EMPLOYES

Charlotte, N. C., March 6 (A.P.).—The five Gastonia textile workers accused of the death of Ella May Wiggins, Bessemer City Union member, were acquitted by a jury in Mecklenburg County superior court tonight. The jury was out less than an hour.

The verdict was announced at 6:27 p. m. The jury agreed, it was announced, after 35 minutes of deliberation. The remaining period between the time the jurors were given the case at 5:35 p. m., and the time the verdict was announced was spent awaiting Judge J. H. Clement to return to the courtroom.

Judge Clement had gone out for lunch. As soon as the jury agreed, however, he was hastily summoned and received the verdict.

The jurors took the case after they had been instructed in the charge of Presiding Judge J. H. Clement that they could find the defendants guilty of second degree murder, guilty of manslaughter, guilty of assault, or acquit them. The State asked for conviction on second degree murder charges.

The five men on trial are Horace Wheelus, Troy Jones, Lowery Davis, C. H. Lunsford and Fred Morrow, Gastonia textile workers. Mrs. Wiggins, the slaying of whom they were charged with being guilty, was a Bessemer City textile worker and a member of an allegedly Communistic labor union.

State's Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt, closing for the State in the last argument of the trial, urged that the jury disregard any doctrine of belief of Mrs. Wiggins or State's witnesses and decide the case strictly on its merits.

"Gentlemen," he argued, "you are not trying the morals of Ella May Wiggins. You are not trying the social order of the day, the industrial system or the beliefs or doctrines of the dead woman or the State's witnesses.

"You are trying these five men," he asserted, "for the death of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins."

JUDGE ENTERS RACE FOR SEAT IN HOUSE

Charlottesville Jurist to Resign From Bench for Contest.

TO OPPOSE REPUBLICAN

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 6.—Judge John W. Fishburne, who today announced that he would enter the coming Democratic primary as a candidate for representative from the Seventh District, said that he expected to resign as judge of the Eighth Judicial Circuit almost immediately. "I shall remain on the bench," he said, "only long enough to dispose of certain matters now under consideration of the court."

In the event of his nomination, Judge Fishburne will oppose Jacob A. Garber, Republican, of Rockingham, who defeated the Democratic representative, Judge T. W. Harrison, of Winchester, in 1928.

Judge Fishburne, a native of Albemarle, graduated from the University of Virginia Law School, and for one term represented this county in the House of Delegates. He also served on the State library board. Seventeen years ago he was appointed to the bench by Gov. William H. Mann.

After the defeat of Judge Harrison, Judge Fishburne was one of the first men to be spoken of as a candidate likely to wrest the district from Republican rule.

It is reported that State Senator N. B. Early, of Greene, whose candidacy in the Seventh District, was recently reported, will soon announce himself as a supporter of Judge Fishburne, who is quite popular on both sides of the Blue Ridge.

Real Estate Hearings Will Continue Today

The House District committee will meet again today to continue its hearings on bills to regulate the real estate business in Washington.

The committee now has before it two bills, one drafted by the Washington Real Estate Board and other by Oscar H. Brinkman, former clerk of the Senate District committee. The latter measure was drawn up at the suggestion of Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, but was introduced in the House this week by Representative McLeod (Republican), Michigan, acting chairman of the House District committee.

Bravery of Policeman Is Praised by Col. Grant

High official praise for his bravery and coolheadedness in the arrest of Charles Dickerson, colored elevator operator who ran amuck through the Northwest section last week, was bestowed upon Park Policeman Grover C. Shumaker in a letter sent yesterday to Shumaker by Col. U. S. Grant 3rd, through Capt. R. C. Montgomery, superintendent of park police.

Col. Grant pointed out that Dickerson had twice threatened to kill the policeman, and it was not until Shumaker was attacked with a piece of jagged glass that he fired two shots, taking care not to wound his prisoner fatally. Dickerson already had attacked and injured several persons. In his letter Col. Grant stated that Dickerson's mother, sister and aunt had been eyewitnesses to the chase and shooting and had absolved Shumaker of all blame.

Pittsburgh Man Sued By Realty Company

Charging failure to convey real estate under an alleged option, the Old Dutch Realty Development Co., of 1319 G street northwest, yesterday filed suit in District of Columbia Supreme Court seeking to recover $187,800 from David Mahon Craig, of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Craig is sued individually and as surviving trustee.

The plaintiff alleges that in 1921 an agreement was entered into with Mr. Craig and others whereby certain property on Pennsylvania avenue and B street northwest, near Sixth street, would be improved by them, after which it would be leased by the plaintiff with option to purchase at the expiration of the lease. The plaintiff asserts that efforts to get the defendant to go through with the option have been unavailing.

Elmer Bradley Elected Head of Clerks' Group

The resignation of O. W. Hammond as president of War Department Federal Employes Union, No. 261, has been accepted and Elmer H. Bradley, of the office of public buildings and public parks, has been named president. Mr. Hammond resigned because of transfer to another city.

G. Carroll Dimond, of the adjutant general's office, was elected third vice president to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Bradley's promotion.

PARK BOARD VOTES $5,000 FOR CENTER

Takoma Park Site Accepted for Recreation Grounds at Capital Meeting.

PLANS ARE SUBMITTED

Acceptance of a site in Takoma Park from that municipality as a proposed recreational center and appropriation of $5,000 for its improvement featured a meeting of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission last night at its headquarters in the Tower Building.

The property, bounded by Takoma, Buffalo and Albany avenues, including a strip of land beside the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad right of way, has been in litigation for a lengthy period. The railroad recently petitioned the Maryland Public Service Commission for the right to release its claim of the land, an action which speakers at this meeting pointed out had paved the way for its development as a recreational center.

The park and planning commission at the same time received a plan submitted by its chief engineer, Irving C. Root, and its landscape architect, Roland W. Rogers, for improvement of the site. Under their proposal, numerous large shade trees would be preserved, a large community building would be erected there to house a branch library, an auditorium and a gymnasium, with other construction to include swings, wading pools, baseball diamond, picnic grove, horseshoe pitching pit and other recreational features.

The commission voted to allow its Montgomery County members to proceed with its park program pending the outcome of the Cramton park bill in Congress.

Robert E. Hagner, of Bethesda, and both H. Edson Rogers and Charles Latimer, of Takoma Park, were named as a committee to make arrangements for purchase of lands in the proposed Sligo Park and the park to be created as the extension of Rock Creek Park in Montgomery County.

COMMUNIST DISORDERS.

The disorderly demonstrations yesterday in many American and foreign cities give the lie to certain senators and others who have tried to make it appear that unemployed people begging for work are brutally beaten up under the pretense that they are Communists. The public authorities have been denounced for "drawing a red herring across the trail of unemployment."

In every instance yesterday the disturbances were led by Communists. The parades began in communist hangouts, and the fighting was done by Communists. Such reds as William Z. Foster and Robert Minor were the spokesmen of the rioters in New York.

Those who dismiss these manifestations as proof of the impotency of the Communists overlook the object of the plotters. The reds are following a consistent program of agitation. No one can deny that they are making headway. They do not expect to attain their objects soon, but if they can move in the direction they desire they are warranted in "reporting progress." They have gained converts by the thousands. These converts are induced to work themselves into a frenzy of fancied antagonism to the police. Every effort is made by the plotters to provoke riots and bloodshed. They are well pleased when they obtain sensational publicity, which is used to encourage Communists in other countries. Every picture of the police struggling with communist men and women is made to appear as a "brutal police assault." The hope of the red agitators is to make every manifestation greater and bloodier than the last, and thus bring about a real struggle. They do not weary in this work, and it must be admitted that they are successful in proselyting among the discontented and the unemployed. A season of really hard times in this country might bring surprising results in rioting and bloodshed.

Communists should not be permitted to parade or to use the congested areas for their gatherings. They should be compelled to hold their meetings in their own halls, where they can blow off steam to their hearts' content. When they monopolize the streets and interfere with the movements of peaceful citizens they are a nuisance and a menace.

PUBLICITY IN AVIATION.

A bill introduced by Senator Bingham would amend the air commerce act so as to direct the Department of Commerce to make public detailed findings with respect to the cause of airplane accidents, at the same time giving the department power to subpena witnesses and compel them to testify. The department at present investigates accidents, but makes public its findings only twice a year, in statistical, summarized form. This is the only policy possible in view of the fact that the department can not compel witnesses to testify.

It is generally agreed that a policy of frankness as to the causes of and responsibility for air crashes is best calculated to promote public confidence in the airplane. The department has no desire to cover up responsibility, and Congress, when it enacted the air commerce act, believed that it was providing for complete publicity in connection with accidents. But the law does not go far enough. Witnesses should be compelled to testify, and the facts concerning air accidents should be made public promptly, in detail, without fear or favor.

GIVE THE VETERANS HELP.

Representative Thomas J. Halsey, of Missouri, has called attention to the urgent needs of many veterans of the World War whose claims against the Government have not been recognized by the Veterans' Bureau. "There is today," he said, "just and widespread complaint among the veterans that many of their comrades are neglected and in grievous distress because they can not prove with legal evidence to the satisfaction of some board that tuberculosis or other disease, or their disability in some other form, is service connected."

Mr. Halsey called upon the bureau to be "less of a stickler for rigid adherence to the letter of the law as set forth by its legal department," and to give more consideration to the debt the Government owes to the men who carried the flag overseas. The people want war veterans taken care of, regardless of the existence of proof that their ailments arose from military service during the war. It is now extremely difficult to establish definite connection between a broken body and the war which ended nearly twelve years ago. The veterans should be given the benefit of the doubt.

In a recent speech Gen. Hines called attention to the movement to do away with the service-connected clause in the existing compensation legislation so that this class of veterans may be taken care of. "These veterans and their dependents require material assistance," he said, "and, naturally, appeal to the Government for it, just as those other veterans who have preceded them." Nothing can be gained from quibbling with the Nation's former defenders who are now in want. While Congress is coming to the aid of these veterans with more liberal legislation the bureau would do well to extend aid in questionable cases. It is a solemn obligation of the Government to care for veterans in distress, and they should not be denied that aid by long delay, red tape or technicalities.

FARM BOARD POLICIES.

In an interview in the Magazine of Wall Street, Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, says:

> We are attempting nothing very different in effect from what the Government has already done for manufacturing through the tariff, for the railways through land grants and loans, for labor through the immigration laws, for finance through the Federal Reserve act, &c. It is quite as proper to use the governmental machinery to help the farmer as these other groups, and that is the purpose of the agricultural marketing act.

The essential difference between these governmental activities and those in behalf of the farmer is that, generally speaking, the former do not seek to assist one population group at the expense of all others. If the board were content to work only for the improvement of the marketing machine, it would not be discriminating against anybody. When, however, it fixes the price of agricultural necessities, as it has done recently, it is taking from all groups to benefit one.

Yesterday, in a prepared statement, the board said:

> The stabilization corporation will continue to buy wheat at the market and remove from the market whatever additional quantity may be necessary to relieve pressure and prevent any considerable decline in wheat prices. The board is prepared to advance to this farmers' organization whatever funds are necessary for the purpose.
> The stabilization corporation is being accused of speculating in the grain market. There is no foundation in fact for such statement. The corporation is prepared, and expects, to take delivery of all grain purchased on futures contracts and merchandise it as market conditions permit.

What is this but speculation? The corporation buys grain to hold for unloading when the price warrants. All speculators, whether they hold grain itself or mere "slips of blue paper," buy to hold for unloading when the price warrants. The Farm Board is speculating and it fools no one by asserting that it is not.

It may be that this speculation will in the end work to the advantage of the farmer and the country as a whole. It may be that the socialization of agriculture will, in the end, react to the advantage of the country. The danger for the moment, however, lies in the fact that no definite steps have been taken toward curtailing acreage and controlling the production of surpluses. Unless the total can be held down, the stabilization experiment must fail.

It should be recognized that the board has not had the opportunity as yet of introducing a crop-curtailment program. When the board was created, this year's winter wheat crop was in the ground and the spring wheat farmers should not have been expected to bear the burden of limiting acreage. The British rubber restriction scheme and the Brazilian coffee valorization program both failed because, with price fixing in both cases and with government purchase and storage in one, it was not found possible to limit production. Farm relief, too, is bound to fail if the Farm Board does not succeed in curtailing acreage. The critical test will come with the planting of next year's crops.

PRESIDENT MASARYK.

This is the eightieth birthday of President Thomas G. Masaryk, of Czechoslovakia. Providence has been benign to both the nation and its founder. His preparation for the supreme test was providential. He struggled in imperial politics, traveled and studied political systems, and made himself a master of the art of the government. When the time came for his country to be free he was qualified to draft its declaration of independence and its fundamental charter. Then, through twelve years, he was spared to guide the infant republic through vicissitudes well-nigh as dangerous as war. He remains in good health, with the prospect of many more useful years as the head of his country.

Dr. Masaryk went around the world during the war, incessantly working for the allies and for the liberation of his countrymen. He directed the strategy of the Czechoslovak army that made the renowned journey from Europe through Russia across the Pacific to the homeland. It was in Washington that Masaryk drafted the declaration of independence. At first it was a demand for autonomy, as the breakup of the Austro-Hungarian Empire was not clearly foreseen. But as the United States delivered its smashing blows late in 1918, Dr. Masaryk perceived that independence, and not mere autonomy, was the destiny of his country. On the advice of friends in Washington he boldly proclaimed independence, and received immediate recognition from the allied powers.

The republic of Czechoslovakia is a lighthouse in central Europe. Its constitution is a model upon which other nations can build self-government if they will. With the keenest insight, Dr. Masaryk worked out a structure of government suited to his people and to the problems of their environment. His work is lasting. In many respects it resembles the constructive statesmanship of George Washington. Like Washington, he is the father of his country, and while he is alive he receives the salute of liberty-loving men in all countries. His name will stand forever on the corner stone of Czechoslovakia.

BRAZIL'S ELECTION.

The election which has just been held in Brazil offers striking evidence of the success of the representative system of government in Latin America. This great South American republic has demonstrated its ability to maintain a government of the people, by the people and for the people on a sound political basis. Congratulations are due from all other self-governing peoples.

Local disturbances during the campaigns were greatly magnified to the outside world. They were of no significance, however, in the final contest, and indicate a lively interest in political affairs rather than any widespread intrigue or disaffection. Brazil has developed a strong two-party system which has proved effective in expressing the will of the people. Candidates for both parties were men of great ability and high character. The struggle between them was clean-cut and proved to be a genuine test of strength. There could be no more convincing evidence of political progress.

There was a general exercise of the suffrage right, which suggests that the Latin-American people will no longer permit themselves to be bamboozled by opportunist politicians. Balloting was peaceful, honest and lawfully conducted. The popular will was expressed in a manner that should give encouragement to all Latin-American peoples who are trying to operate their own governments for their own benefit.

Brazil has been a republic since 1889. Its president is elected by popular vote for four years. He chooses a cabinet that is responsible to him alone, just as does the President of the United States.

With an area larger than that of continental United States and a population of 40,000,000, Brazil is destined to become one of the greatest nations of the world. It is gratifying to find a sister republic with such extensive possibilities for development established on a sound foundation of representative government. All America is pleased to see the Latin-American people become masters of their own destiny.

ALEX LEGGE SPEAKING

From the Magazine of Wall Street.

Interest centers in the Federal Farm Board. It is the baby, its methods are novel, it is making daring economic experiments with the whole country as its laboratory—and it has $500,000,000 of public money back of it. History may write later that the board was the greatest politico-economic achievement of its age—or it may record it as the consummate type of failure of Government in business.

The whole scheme may be unsound, but a curious fact is that its head administrator is a hard-boiled, hard-bitten business man, Alex Legge—who believes in it.

So much for the background of the interview. The interview, itself, got right down to business.

Question—"Does the work of the Federal Farm Board verge on what might be called state socialism?"

Answer (by Mr. Legge)—"No, absolutely no. We are attempting nothing different in effect than the Government has already done in various ways for manufacturing industry through the protective tariff and the Department of Commerce; for the railways by land grants and loans; for labor by the tariff, the immigration exclusion laws and others, also the Department of Labor; for finance by the Federal Reserve act and other constructive laws; for shipping by loans, subsidies, and the general help of the Shipping Board. It is quite as proper to use the governmental machine to help the farmers as those other groups, and that is the purpose of the agricutural marketing act, which describes itself as 'An act to establish a Federal Farm Board to promote the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce, and to place agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industries'."

The next question went right to the heart of the most acutely sore spot the Farm Board has so far inflamed.

"Does the work of the board tend to destroy the private trade in produce—not only the grain exchanges but the individual grain buyers?"

"I don't think so," was the answer. "As the process of readjustment of marketing works out the specific effects will not be so disturbing as many now suppose. Marketing of farm products will be more orderly, which means that prices will be more uniform and less affected by speculation. Of course, if the cooperative movement were carried to the nth degree, the whole grain trade, for example, would become cooperative and there would be no room for noncooperative marketing instrumentalities or grain exchanges. It probably will never get that far. We do hope to minimize—as the law provides—the destructive effects of speculation, but none of us is likely to live to see the private grain trade abolished or speculation eliminated. It is not our purpose to break down any business, but to help the farmer, through collective action, to market his crops; effects on other businesses will be incidental, not purposeful.

"You must remember that the fundamental purpose of the act is to put agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industries. This can be accomplished only through some collective control of production, and of selling up to the processor or ultimate distributor. That means, inevitably, considerable changes in present marketing practices. Congress specifically enjoins us to promote the establishment of a farm marketing system of producer owned producer controlled cooperative associations and other agencies for the purpose of attaining greater unity of effort in marketing. If this unity collides with disunity to the dissatisfaction of some the answer lies with Congress.

"Anyway, physical and organization machines are continually dispensing with occupations and abolishing jobs—in this changing world."

"Do you expect that the Farm Board will ultimately use all of the $500,000,000 that has been authorized?"

"We shall not hesitate to call for it if the full performance of our functions demands it. At present we are not asking any appropriations beyond the original $150,000,000.

"We believe that we have already accomplished substantial results. The indirect results of the board's work have been as important—more so than the direct. The farmers are taking new heart. They are facing the future hopefully.

"I do not regard the board as a perpetual institution. Its work is to finance and organize the beginnings of efficient agricultural cooperation. After a few years of successful operation under governmental assistance and leadership the cooperatives will be able to stand on their own feet and carry on without public financing or supervision. But temporary assistance, such as we are giving, was indispensable—continuation of agricultural deterioration was otherwise inevitable. I can say emphatically that my judgment as a business man approves what the Government is doing for the farmers. It is good business and worth the cost."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AT MIAMI BEACH.

I've eaten lunch at the Baltimore; at Child's I've carried trays,
I used to eat at a wagon stand in the good old early days.
I've stood in line with hungry folks in many a known cafe,
And coffee and beans and bread and pie I can juggle on a tray,
But I never dreamed of the dizzy heights that "a serve-self" meal could reach
Till I joined the line at the Bath Club lunch down at Miami Beach.

I've jostled trays with journeymen and toilers bent with cares,
But I never thought I should some day spill pea soup over millionaires.
I never supposed in my wildest flights I should live to see the day
When I'd go to lunch in my bathing suit, topped off with a bathrobe gay.
Now I've stood in line with the wealthy boys as they reached for their "apple" or "peach,"
And the trays we carry at home are the trays they use at Miami Beach.

"Aha," thought I, as I lined up there with my spoons in a napkin tied,
"It's the same old tray and the same old food, with the same trimmings on the side.
It's the 'serve-self' lunch which I know so well; it's some old grab and clutch
For the beans and bread and the coffee and pie, with a little fancy touch.
The poor man's grub is the rich man's food, alike are their thoughts and speech,
The poor are carrying trays at home; the rich at Miami Beach."

Don't Quit Feeding While More Feed Can Produce More Milk.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN a dreamer suggests that civilization ultimately will require an equal division of the profits of labor, the well-fed are quick to cry "Communist!" "Bolshevik!"

But any man who studies the present status and the trend of industry must come to the conclusion that some such scheme will be necessary to preserve prosperity.

The accumulation of great fortunes and the invention of machines paved the way for a new era in industry.

It is an era of mergers—of pooled resources that eliminate competition and operate without duplication of effort.

The ideal and purpose of giant industrialists is that unified control of production shall make the greatest possible use of machines and operate them with the least possible use of manpower.

Observe, now, the absurdity and the disaster that will be inevitable when this ideal reaches ultimate perfection.

Suppose the last possible merger has been made and the last possible machine invented; so that five rich men, employing five workmen to push buttons, can produce in their automatic factories a sufficient quantity of all manufactured commodities to supply the needs of the world.

Ultimate and marvelous efficiency!

But civilization would be destroyed, for there would be no earners to serve as consumers, and the unemployed millions would be able to exist only by returning to the ways of the primitive.

Consumers are essential to the prosperity of producers, and anything that tends to increase their number or capacity adds to the producer's profit.

Increasing wages or otherwise sharing profits with the worker increases demand and thus increases production and dividends.

If one man owned all units of production, so that the dollar spent for clothing and the dollar spent for a kitchen cabinet went into the same pocket, this truth would be obvious to everybody.

Obvious or not, it is true; and thus truth is the basis of America's prosperity.

Higher wages; greater consumption; more profit; higher wages.

Where, then, is the limit—the point beyond which higher wages would be unfair and economically unsound?

The answer to that is obvious, too.

The perfect adjustment of wages and output—the ultimate maximum of both—would be a division of profits that enabled the worker to buy all he could consume.

And thus sound economics at last necessitates an equal division of profits as in the dreamer's Utopia.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE GOVERNOR'S PAJAMAS.

Another international crisis has been averted. There will be no war over the green silk pajamas of Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana.

• • • •

Whether or not pajamas are under any circumstances correct wear for receiving officers of another naval power may have to be thrashed out at Geneva, but for the time being there will be no army mobilizations, here or abroad.

• • • •

Gov. Long apologized for his green pajamas, right or wrong, and the German commander of the cruiser Emden, now off New Orleans, has let the matter drop for the nonce.

• • • •

Lothar von Arnauld de la Periere, commander of the Emden, paid an official visit to Gov. Long at his apartment in New Orleans and the governor, being in his silk pajamas at the time, received him that way, little realizing that a thing like that might even mean war.

• • • •

Gov. Long welcomed the German naval officer, wished him a pleasant stay, gave him the keys to the Commonwealth and considered the incident closed. He knew the German navy wasn't what it used to be but he didnt think it so weak that it could be upset by a pair of pajamas.

• • • •

The commander left without showing any visible indignation. He may have at first thought green silk pajamas the official state diplomatic costume in New Orleans.

• • • •

It was when he made inquiries and found that bathrobes, nightgowns, Indian blankets, one-piece bathing suits and pajamas of all sizes, regardless of cut and shade, were in no American book of etiquette as the prescribed attire for public men receiving officers of a friendly nation that the commander began to boil.

• • • •

He cabled the news to Berlin, which shook with reverberations for twenty-four hours. President Hindenberg dropped a stein on his foot as he got the news, and sensitive German naval authorities registered their highest blood-pressure since Jutland.

• • • •

Washington heard the news and President Hoover reeled perceptibly and took two reefs in his hair shirt at the very idea of having his troubles added to by an international crisis over a pair of green pajamas.

• • • •

The President knew that if something wasn't done quickly he would be blamed by the Democrats for the incident, and that in due time he would even be accused of being the man who had worn the pajamas.

• • • •

Secretary Stimson got the news in London and took to bed with what was described as a severe cold. It looked pretty bad.

• • • •

Then Gov. Long, not wishing to go down in history as the man who had caused the World War to end green silk pajamas, hopped into a boat, went out to the German cruiser fully dressed, and presented his apologies.

• • • •

He explained that during the New Orleans Mardi Gras season green pajamas are considered formal attire, assured the commander that some of his best friends were Germans and made a frank confession that green wasn't his favorite color anyhow.

• • • •

Again world peace has been preserved! Phew!

ATTENTION, GENEVA!

How about a world conference to determine once and for all whether you spell it cold slaw or cole slaw?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Why Not Teach Patriotism as an Antidote to Communism?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In anticommunistic remarks before the Liberal Arts Club Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, as reported in The Post, "produced a large pile of examples of communistic literature that he asserted is being distributed among school children."

The circulation of any sort of propaganda among school children is decidedly objectionable, and assuming the truth of such assertions as that of Gen. Fries, it is astonishing that public opinion has not been more emphatic in condemnation of the seeming apathy of the school authorities.

In my opinion this direct propaganda of the communists is far from being as dangerous as what may be called the indirect propaganda of the schools themselves. In so far as American literature is a part of the public school curriculum the red-blooded patriotism of old has been subjected to the phlebotomy of quack doctors of internationalism. The "pieces" that made my blood thrill in the school readers of my boyhood days are conspicuous by their absence. The children of today get no "kick" from "Warren's Address at Bunker Hill" with its "Stand, the ground's your own, my braves," nor from Daniel Webster's prophetic boast that "the shining car of freedom will roll over the necks of kings," not to mention other effusions of spreadable Americanism in prose and verse.

In a recent address Mrs. David Caldwell, state regent of the District of Columbia Society, D. A. R., said:

"The best way to combat communism is through education. We must see that our boys and girls are given more information on the principles on which our Government is founded."

This is an idea which should be constantly stressed. But specifically it hardly goes far enough. Abstract principles are not always clearly defined in the adult mind and can have but a slight effect on the minds of young children. Something more concrete, something with a flesh and blood appeal, is demanded.

To those apprehensive citizens who see a menace to American ideals in every soapbox, I would say: Restore the old-time patriotic literature, restore the drumbeat and rattling musketry of Bunker Hill. Teach practical American patriotism by showing how our fathers fought and died for America. C. P. AUSTIN.

Gen. Atterbury's Opposition to Prohibition a "Huge Joke," in View of Prohibition Rule of His Railroad.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The "wets" certainly confounded their testimony when they called Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, before the House judiciary committee to testify in the interest of their cause.

It is a well known fact that the Pennsylvania Railroad has had absolute prohibition and has been enforcing it for 30 years—20 years before the eighteenth amendment was passed.

It is all right, in Mr. Atterbury's opinion, for him to deprive his 171,000 employes of their so-called "personal liberty" but it is all wrong for the State. If intoxicating liquor is a bad thing for the employes of a railroad company, how in the name of common sense can it be a good thing for other people?

Mr. Atterbury's action toward his own employes and his testimony before the House committee was so contradictory and inconsistent that it made his whole argument a huge joke.

In view of the company's prohibition policy, the officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. should be the last people in the world to use their influence to bring about the return of the legalized liquor traffic.

Boy Scouts to Cooperate in Planting Nut-Bearing Trees.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Because of the apparent shortage of nut-bearing trees, the American Forestry Association is sponsoring a project among the Boy Scouts of America which will replenish the supply. The association has raised a fund of $10,000 with which to finance a nation-wide tree planting program by the Boy Scouts.

Nuts from different kinds of trees will be collected and sent to the Department of Agriculture Experimental Farm at Arlington, Va., where they will be sorted and then sent to various scout troops throughout the United States. After receiving the seeds, the scouts will plant them in plots of ground favorable to the different varieties. Later the seedling trees will be taken up and replanted throughout the districts of the respective troops.

Through this unique plan, the boys will become interested in tree planting and their efforts will create a supply of seedling nut trees that can be planted on land available for the purpose and thus increase this species of timber, which is rapidly diminishing.

Native Trees Should Be Grown in New Parks and Reservations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recently one of your correspondents suggested the advisability of placing animal statuary in the city parks, limiting the same to the fauna of the United States. In connection therewith it occurs to me that it might be a good thing to give special attention to the planting of the indigenous trees of the country in the parks. It would be educational as well as ornamental. Better still, why not devote one or more of the National Park and Planning Commission's contemplated outlying park reservations to the growth of native trees, some species of which are disappearing?

STANCH MONARCHIST DIES IN VON TIRPITZ

Admiral "God Let Live Too Long" Passes Away in Quiet Seclusion.

GERMANY MOURNS LOSS

Berlin, March 6 (A.P.).—The death today of Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz removes from Germany's public scene one of the stanchest personifications of the old regime—a one-time great naval leader who could not adjust himself to the republic.

When once he assured a newspaperman that "God has let me live too long; I see only chaos ahead for Germany," he revealed his true inner self.

The greatest blow to his hopes probably came when he saw that President von Hindenburg, whom he had persuaded to run for the presidency, had proved a firm bulwark for the new republican state instead of becoming a chair warmer for a restored monarchy.

He was disappointed, too, to see a large section of the Nationalists gradually dropping monarchism as a dead issue. He thereupon withdrew from politics and went to the quiet village of Feldafing.

The news of his death at Ebenhausen was a great surprise to his countrymen and especially in Berlin, where he had visited friends until February 3. His illness had seemed slight and only yesterday his housekeeper received word from Frau von Tirpitz that she was returning to Feldafing with her husband in a day or two.

One of the first condolences came from President von Hindenburg, who said, "The great services of the deceased for the German fleet in peace and war will continue to live in the history of Germany's defensive forces."

Gen. Wilhelm Groener, minister of defense; Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, and many other prominent persons also sent expressions of sympathy.

All over the country Nationalist societies adopted resolutions of condolence.

Editors Are Freed In Contempt Case

Ohio Pair Are Vindicated When Appellate Court Rules in Their Favor.

Cleveland, March 6 (A.P.).—Freedom of the press won another victory here today when the appellate court overruled a contempt of court conviction of Louis B. Seltzer, editor, and Charlton K. Matson, editorial writer of the Cleveland Press, daily newspaper.

The appellate court ordered Mr. Matson and Mr. Seltzer not to pay $500 fines nor to serve 30-day jail sentences which were imposed on them a year ago by Common Pleas Judge Frederick Walther. In addition, the appellate judges scored Judge Walther for his actions in the case and delivered an opinion that the rights of free newspapers are essential to a free people.

Judge Walther tried and convicted Mr. Matson and Mr. Seltzer on the contempt charge when he took offense at an editorial in the Press which criticized him for granting an injunction restraining Sheriff E. J. Hanratty from stopping a betting system at a race track. Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, defending Mr. Matson and Mr. Seltzer, declared that the editorial was not in contempt inasmuch as it did not interfere with the court nor concern a case then pending.

Four Die in Air Crash At Czech Celebration

Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 6 (A.P.).—Four soldiers were killed today when two monoplanes collided in the air. The planes were part of a fleet of 40 participating in the festivities honoring President Masaryk.

One soldier jumped but his parachute did not open. The other three fell with their machines.

Boy Scout Founder in New York.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Lord Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout movement in England and chief scout of the world, and Lady Baden-Powell, chief guide of Girl Scouts of England, arrived from Bermuda today on the liner Bermuda for a brief visit.

Mexican Mayor Assassinated.

Mexico City, March 6 (A.P.).—Guadalajara dispatches to La Prensa say that Abraham Leon, mayor of the town of Jesus Mia, in the state of Jalisco, was assassinated by a rebellious element which he has been trying to eliminate. The assassins escaped.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

IN ADDITION to expecting such substantial gains in the election this November that the Democratic-Progressive coalition will control the House as it now does the Senate, thus adding to President Hoover's mental "hair shirts," Democrats expect to gain six seats net in the Senate.

Republican leaders naturally do not concede anything of the sort. Administration leaders are very frank in admitting that they can not expect to hold their present strength in the House, but they expect to keep enough for organization purposes.

* * * *

THE seven seats which the Democrats expect to gain—they admit the loss of one, probably, in Iowa, and therefore figure a net gain of six—are in Massachusetts, Colorado, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Oklahoma, Kentucky and West Virginia.

In Iowa it is expected that some one wearing a Republican label will win the seat now occupied by Dan Steck, Democrat. But while this will be a gain on paper, actually the Republican leaders would far prefer to keep Steck in the Senate rather than have a so-called Republican who may be more like a Brookhart than a regular.

Of the seven States in which the Democrats are expecting gains, the most logical, from their standpoint, is Oklahoma. Here Senator Pine comes up for reelection, after having been swept in on the Coolidge landslide at a time when the klan dominated the State and when the Democratic party was split wide open.

* * * *

IN West Virginia former Senator Neely is essaying a comeback, with Senator Goff, who ran strongly in 1924, as his opponent. For reasons difficult of explanation Goff is stronger in West Virginia than in Washington. So, despite his strong run six years ago, Republicans are talking about his "weakness" being likely to drag down several Republican members of the House. There is no doubt of Neely's strength, so it may take the last few precincts to decide.

* * * *

IN Massachusetts the whole problem of the Democrats is to find a candidate on whom all factions can agree. There is no doubt of the Republican weakness. Former Senator Butler, while a successful business man and a good administrator of the Republican national committee, makes a very poor fist at garnering votes. But the Yankee Democrats out in the sticks may not be willing to vote for another Irishman.

If Dave Walsh were the candidate there would be no doubt of the outcome, but elect a second Irishman is something else again. Besides, Butler has always straddled on the wet and dry issue, and this is not a good year for straddling on prohibition in the Bay State.

* * * *

PETER GOELET GERRY is again the Democratic standard bearer in Rhode Island, having gone down to defeat while his State was going for Smith. The betting is a little bit better than even that he will come back.

Republican hopes in Jersey are based largely on the prestige of Dwight W. Morrow, plus the difficulty of the Democrats in finding an outstanding candidate. The wet and dry issue may determine this outcome. The State is wet, and so are the inclinations of Mr. Morrow, it is whispered, but what will the administration say?

Kentucky so far is an absolute enigma.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

ONE of the striking features of these Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival Players is their versatality. Naturally, in a rotating system where the star of one performance is the support of another some degree of adaptability is expected. So there was little surprise last evening in the National Theater when Mr. George Hayes played an excellent Hamlet. He had turned in a grand Claudio, in "Much Ado," and had then gone from Romeo to Brutus in the two following performances. His histrionic ability was thus established. Voice, poise and the Hayes interpretation contributed to a grand evening in the theater. Somehow or other, the event had been sensed, anticipated—and a packed house greeted the Stratford rendition of "Hamlet."

Nor did Mr. Hayes garner all the honors. The company rose to the occasion, as companies sometimes have a way of doing. Miss Joyce Bland, whose Juliet will be the talk of this town for many years to come, naturally offered an artistic portrayal of Ophelia. This was another performance anticipated by the patrons who have come now to weigh the real value of an excellent troupe. Miss Bland has no immediate rival in the theater hereabouts.

Another performance that stood out last night was that of Wilfred Walter, who played Claudius, King of Denmark. It was on Wednesday afternoon, as Marc Antony, that Mr. Walter first let loose the remarkable vocal powers that are his. Previously they had been hinted at, and felt in certain measure, but then and there he was adjudged for his true worth—and the follow-up last night, as Claudius, placed him again on a pedestal. Mr. Robert King, that old-time theatergoer, compares the Walter voice with that of DeWolf Hopper in his prime. But as DeWolf Hopper never played Shakespearean roles this, perhaps, is merely for illustration. Mr. Hopper has a mighty boom when he recites "Casey at the Bat"—and Mr. Walter, when he gives the funeral oration in "Julius Caesar" arouses not only the Roman mob, on stage, but the pewholders, out front. They want to crawl over the footlights and join in the general revolution.

Kenneth Wickstead, whose consistent work with the company has been commented upon favorably, played Polonius last night, following all the traditions. This, too, was to be expected; since the director of these plays hews to the line of the old Shakespearean companies; nor lets novelty interfere with the purpose in hand.

Miss Fabia Drake, accredited already with several outstanding portraits in the gallery, made a stunning Gertrude. Eric Maxon was Horatio, and Ron Byford the first grave digger.

By this time it is pretty well understood that the Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival Company has established itself a Washington favorite; that it handles the plays with the reserve and dignity they are entitled to, and that any return engagement will be welcomed.

Tonight the company has scheduled "Twelfth Night."

To "Point-Up" Appetite Just Stimulate Bowels

Whenever the end of the day finds you out-of-sorts; food doesn't tempt you and won't digest; breath is bad; tongue coated, just chew a candy tablet before bedtime. Tomorrow you'll be a new person!

A candy Cascaret clears up a bilious, gassy, headachy condition every time. Puts appetite on edge. Helps digestion. Activates bowels.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which authorities say actually strengthens bowel muscles. So, take these delightful tablets as often as you please; or give them freely to children. All drug stores sell Cascarets for a dime, and no dollar preparation could do better work.

BORNO COUP D'ETAT IS RUMORED IN HAITI

Intends to Resign and Name His Own Successor, Opponents Say.

NEW RIOTS AT JACMEL

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, March 6 (A.P.).—Haitian agitation for intervention by the Hoover commission in political affairs of the republic reached a new peak today.

Rumors spreading through the city that President Louis Borno intended to make a coup d'etat by resigning and naming his own successor through new appointments to the council of state roused great excitement.

At Jacmel, Capt. Hal Potter, Nacional Garde officer in command, reported today that 100 young men had rioted last night. The police subdued them with sticks. Two sergeants were hit with stones, but were not hurt.

Feeling High in South.

Feeling in the south ran high against the American occupation of the island republic. Conditions were under control, however, and no serious trouble was expected.

Leaders of groups opposing occupation conferred privately with the commissioners late this afternoon, discussing plans for a provisional government.

They agreed to issue a statement urging their followers to refrain from disturbances while the commissioners were studying the situation.

Different Haitian groups have put various interpretations upon a call the commissioners paid to the president at the palace today.

W. Cameron Forbes, chairman of the commission, officially announced that the visit was "purely social, and we want that understood fully."

Wanted Quiet Discussion.

But it was reported in Haitian quarters, even among some of the Borno supporters, that it had been requested by the president so that within the safety of his guarded palace he could inform the commissioners of his views.

Some Haitian leaders tonight declared they believed that elements anxious for the American marines to stay in Haiti were planning to foment trouble and to make it appear to be the work of the opposition.

The commission heard testimony as to alleged abuses of power by President Borno from Emanuel Cauvin, ousted from the council of state last week after a controversy with the president.

Cauvin declared that President Borno had often dictated how the councillors should vote. He said the council was "now packed with small groups jealous of each other, so that it is impossible for any other person than Borno to wield the power."

Soviets Eject Noblemen; Homes Given Workers

Moscow, March 6 (A.P.).—Under a recent decree of the government, 5,326 traders, former noblemen, landlords, officers, and other socalled nontoiling elements, including their dependents, were evicted from their homes here.

Their expulsion gave the government a total of 33,367 square meters of living space. It was apportioned among industrial workers and demobilized Red army soldiers who, heretofore, it is said, inhabited damp,

Wheel on Plane Gone, Flier Lands Perfectly

Soon after leaving Selfridge Field, the wheel dropped from the landing gear and the flier, not knowing of the loss, continued on his way here. Wright Field fliers sent two ships out to meet Cobb and with the aid of a large sign painted on the fuselage of their planes, told the Selfridge pilot of his danger.

CAPITAL FIRM PLANS $1,100,000 BUILDING

NINE STORIES IN HEIGHT

Permit to construct a $1,100,000 building on the northeast corner of Tenth and E streets has been asked of the District building inspector by the Potomac Electric Power Co.

The new building is to take the place of the existing offices at Fourteenth and C streets, which have been purchased by the Government and are to be demolished to make way for the Government triangle development.

The new building is to be nine stories in height with an additional "penthouse" story. The basement is to be devoted to parking space for the automobiles of company employes so that there will be no congestion at the intersection due to parking troubles of employes and customers.

The second floor will be devoted to a demonstration of a modern all-electric home. This will include an electrical "sun parlor" and will show in actual use all kinds of electric equipment for home use.

The building has been designed by Waddy B. Wood, architect, and will contain 2,205,000 feet of space. It will be 193 feet along E street and 87 feet along Tenth street, with the main entrance on Tenth street. It will be trimmed in brick and limestone with the entrance trimmed in white granite. The plans now are under study by Plumbing Inspector McGonigle. Other substations are to be constructed by the electric company to care for activities which are housed in the present quarters which must be given up.

Art Exhibition By Chileans Is To Open Today

Ambassador and Wife to Sponsor Show at Yorke Gallery.

CONNOISSEURS of art will welcome the opportunity afforded during the next ten days to view the recent work of two widely known Chilean artists, Senor Pablo Burchard and Senor Juan Oliver, which will be exhibited at the Yorke Galleries under the patronage of the Ambassador of Chile and Senora de Davila. The exhibition will open today and continue through March 15.

Significant in the showing of Senor Burchard's oils is the close alliance with Senora de Davila, an artist of exceptional ability, who studied for some time with the famous master of oil, heralded throughout South America as one of the foremost artists of the day. Although crowded hours in Washington's social regime leave small margin for intensive endeavor in the field of art, yet the chatelaine of the Chilean Embassy maintains a studio and devotes many pleasant hours to her art which is confined to work in oils.

Although Senor Burchard is not in this country, friends of art and of the Ambassador of Chile and Senora de Davila may greet Senor Oliver, who is a guest at the embassy and will probably pass a part of each day at the Yorke Galleries. He has brought to Washington a group of drawings and sketches of ranking importance. Senor Oliver has been making his home in New York for some months.

Foreign artists, when they exhibit in Washington, have an advantage over Americans in that their shows are usually given under embassy or legation patronage, which assures their work being viewed by a group of picture lovers who are potential picture purchasers.

The Belgian Ambassador, Prince de Ligne, was an enthusiastic promoter for the exhibition of contemporary Belgian art, which was on view at the Corcoran Art Gallery for weeks during the early winter and which is now "on tour." And the Canadian Minister, Mr. Vincent Massey, is patron for the exhibition of work by contemporary Canadian artists, which is to open at the gallery tomorrow with a "varnishing day" reception in the evening for which invitations have been issued by the trustees.

Although both were designed with the purpose of familiarizing Americans with the work of present day artists of other nations, the Belgian and the Canadian exhibitions were assembled under different auspices. The Europe-American art committee sponsored the Belgian collection and proposes to see that other foreign collections are circulated in this country from time to time. And the collection of Canadian paintings was brought together by the American Federation of Arts.

Next year the Corcoran Gallery expects to feature a remarkable collection of Mexican art, in the assembling of which Mr. Homer St. Gaudens, head of the Carnegie Art Institute, is involved. American artists will have their innings at the gallery next autumn, when the Corcoran's twelfth biennial exhibition of contemporary American oil paintings will be held, their work challenging comparison with anything which foreign artists have produced in the last score of years.

Envoy Bliss To Sojourn in Georgetown

U. S. Ambassador to Reopen Home in Capital.

Word that Mr. Robert Woods Bliss, United States Ambassador to Argentina, and Mrs. Bliss are on their way back to Washington is coupled with the news that they are to open the Oaks, their estate in Georgetown, for the spring season. This is pleasant news, in truth, for although the Blisses bought the Oaks a half dozen years or more ago, the time they have spent in residence is numbered by weeks.

For a number of years Mr. Bliss served as Assistant Secretary of State, and it was at this time that he purchased the Oaks, a property which takes its name from its giant forest trees. But in restoring the house, it was practically rebuilt, a long drawn-out process, and just about the time the mansion was ready for occupancy Mr. Bliss was sent off to Sweden as United States Minister.

So it was not until Mr. and Mrs. Bliss came back to this country in the train of the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden several years ago that the Oaks was occupied at all, and then it was only for a few days. Several times since Mr. and Mrs. Bliss have been in town on leave and have opened up their house, but again only for brief periods, as most of their holiday time is spent in California with Mr. Bliss' father. This time, apparently, their visit is to be of a bit longer duration.

W. C. A.

Mrs. Andrews will take for her subject, "Through Twelve Administrations." Special music for the program has been arranged by the committee in charge of the dinner, with Miss Alta Smith, soprano, and Miss Lucy Clark Street, pianist.

The dinner will be held in Barker Hall, to accommodate the large number of women who desire to hear Mrs. Andrews.

WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginners.)

When leading against any No Trump declaration, a leader whose partner has not bid should open his longest suit unless:

(a) It was bid by the adversaries before they bid No Trump;

(b) It is very weak, or headed by a tenace and he has a better four-card suit to lead.

To illustrate exception (a): Suppose South should bid one Diamond, West pass, North bid one Spade, East pass, and South bid one No Trump (as it might be in Auction); or (as it might be in Contract with the same hand) South two Diamonds, West pass, North two Spades and South three No Trumps. If, with such bidding West held the following hand:

♠X-X
♥J-10-X
♦K-J-X-X-X
♣X-X-X

C98

Diamonds would be his only long suit, but it would be folly to lead it up to the hand that had bid Diamonds initially, and therefore he should depart from the usual practice and open a short suit. In this case Hearts would be the suit to select.

To illustrate the possibilities of (b), suppose the leader against a declaration of one No Trump in Auction or three No Trumps in Contract, had the following hand:

♠Q-J-10-X
♥X-X
♦K-X-X-X-X
♣X-X

C99

The Diamond suit has five cards and the Spade only four, but Queen-Jack-Ten affords an attractive opening, whereas leading from a King is advisable only when the King-suit is the only long suit in the hand. In this particular illustration another reason for leading the Spade would be that a major should be chosen in preference to a minor—other things being equal. But if the two long suits of the leader in this case were both majors or both minors, or if the Spades and Diamonds were reversed, the advantage of leading from a Queen-Jack-Ten sequence would justify opening the four-card suit in preference to the longer one.

Next Friday the subject of leads against a No Trump will be continued.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

TWICE BAKED BREAD.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

Bread cut or torn into small pieces and heated in a very slow oven until thoroughly dried and very delicately browned is good food for children. The warming oven of a coal stove is about hot enough for this purpose. In the case of gas ovens, it is often difficult to get the gas low enough without having the door open a little way. The advantage of tearing instead of cutting the bread is that it makes it lighter in texture and easier to eat. The crust can be torn off from all but the ends of a loaf of bread in one piece. This crust should be torn into pieces about 2 inches wide. The inside of an ordinary loaf of bread will make sixteen pieces of convenient size. Tear first across the loaf and then tear each half into eight pieces. It is usually necessary to make a small cut first in order to start the tearing. It is well to keep the crusts separate, as otherwise they are likely to get too brown. Such bread will need to be reheated before being served unless it is kept in a warm place, like a warming oven.

The above is also a good way to use stale bread. Some people crush it and use it with milk as a breakfast food.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Modern Mother-in-Law.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I, too, am a mother-in-law, not to one girl, but to two, for I have two sons and they have given me two precious daughters-in-law. Your correspondent is missing, oh, so much happiness. She is losing the "crown for mothers." "Quick, quick, before it is too late let her love and welcome her son's wife. Be glad and thankful that he found a girl that he loves so much that "he thinks only of her health and her happiness." Listen, mother-in-law!

Don't make the mistake that you are "just nobody." You are just a great comfort or a dreadful discomfort. You can bless them with love and cheerfulness, which will make them and you happy, or you can make them and yourself miserable and you will be the most unhappy, for you will be lonely.

Daughters-in-law are a precious gift to a widow and an invalid, only you must love them and win their love. It is a happy task for you as long as you live to make that son happy by loving his wife.

I wish that I might tell you of all that my dear daughters-in-law have done for me, a widow and an invalid. Personal sacrifices, cheerfully undertaken, that I might have, over a long period of years, nurses, doctors, a hospital treatment. There the apparently impossible happened. My love for them and my interest in their homes and the grandchildren preserved my health.

None of us are rich. After nearly two years in France during the war, both sons came home to find their father falling in health, his fortune gone. They had to begin life at the foot of the ladder. Then when the father died, I, the mother, was to be taken care of. Could they have done so much without the cooperation of their wives? Fortunately, I was so glad to have them marry and I bent all energies to loving. One can love, no matter how poor or sick one is. That is always in our power, and that brings the crown to mothers.

I found two strong loving girls ready to shoulder my problems, and to make me realize that life was not all over. Their cheerful acceptances of all the very hard conditions, their unfailing kindness and soon the grandchildren added to my great happiness. Now I am so happy in loving and being loved and in the souls "Sit-by-me-sit-by-me" when I go to visit those grandchildren. I know of no other such reward. It touches me. It makes me proud.

My recipe?

Love your son's wife, keep on loving her until you win her and never interfere. F. W. C.

A letter like that is a treat, and makes one ask why women feel that life's program ends when they have had their romance. Becoming a grandmother is quite as much a part of living as becoming a mother. It happens quite on schedule. Yet almost all women feel that the marriage of their sons is a matter that no one should have expected them to foresee! Why? It is on the program. It is part of the picture. And if the mother accepts the situation in sane and intelligent fashion the average girl responds right sportingly. But women hate to give up the spot light. They resent another in the center of the stage. And so the war is waged so futilely. Romance is spoiled for two, and life embittered for all, through one's failure to read the program to the end!

Safety Zones Sought On Connecticut Avenue

Whether safety zones for street car passengers are to be established at all street car stops between Calvert street and the District line on Connecticut avenue will be discussed at a public hearing called by the Public Utilities Commission for 10 o'clock in the morning of March 17.

Proposal that the safety zones be established was made to the commission by Edgar Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association. Car riders are expected to oppose his proposal.

Press Service Manager To Be Heard on Radio

Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, will discuss "The Big Business of Gathering and Distributing News" over a network of the National Broadcasting Co. tomorrow night, between 8 and 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. Cooper will talk on the program conducted by Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business. In the romance of news gathering Mr. Cooper is a colorful figure. At 50 years of age he has been head of the Associated Press for five years. As a journalist he has traveled the world over.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

A town coat must have simplicity and chic—as this one has! (Courtesy of Bernard et Cit, Paris.)

Paris, March 6.

THERE are several little "be careFuls" about the modern waistline. The most important of these is, be careful not to affect tightness in a belt that is worn at this waistline, because it simply does not go with your modern figure, and also because it will give you an unpleasant slope, from the belt to your hips, which is not taken care of by corsetting.

Speaking of corseting, corsets have always been indispensable to all but the very slender and very firmly built figure, but in the present styles the corset is, if anything, more indispensable. But beware a too tight corseting of hips that will push up a roll of flesh just where it doesn't want to be shown in the new mode! If you are going to affect a normal waistline, see that there is something there to belt—or for heaven's sake don't belt it! See yourself as others see you—from the back as well as front and sides, and you won't make a lot of figural errors that are so unpleasant for others to see.

• • • •

If you are addicted to flowers for evening wear, or your best beloved seems to think it's the thing to do to send you a flock of orchids when you are going out with him of an evening—and you just can't hurt his feelings, yet you just don't know what to do with them—follow the lead of a lovely French actress who clipped her evening corsage to her medium length necklace! The effect was charming, because the flowers could be moved around almost anywhere, from right on the shoulder to the center front, and this gave a pleasant variety to the expression of the ensemble.

Of course, you can't do this trick with any corsage. It has to be sort of especially selected for this kind of idea.

• • • •

White wool, brown fur, Bernard et Cie., and a handful of brown buttons—and there you have the whole story of the coat I illustrated for you today! (Note by La Chic Secretaire: You and I would be crazy about this sort of thing for business or walking or trailing our fashion-writer Dare to Paris on the Ile de France, now wouldn't we? Heigh-ho!)

• • • •

Is your new Easter outfit the thing you're thinking about nothing else but? I've designed one that you can make, probably all by yourself, or with very little dressmaker help, from directions in the illustrated leaflet this week. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for it.

This ensemble can be made of one of those attractive tweeds that are so popular this spring, and, worn in several "versions," is smart and practical.

• • • •

Of course, your gloves can't be completely fur-lined, but if they were fairly long and fur-lined from the wrist up, and then this fur-lining came over the outer part of the cuff in incrustations, you wouldn't care, now would you?

Uhn-n-n-n!

'N then I thought you just couldn't live without seeing this Heim scarf and bag set in three shades of brown and beige—so I sketched it for you, thinking this might be your idea of what to carry with a white wool coat trimmed in brown.

Here's the old reminder again—the weekly Dare fashion letter—in The Washington Post—each Sunday.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"PISCES."

IF March 7 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1 p. m. and from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m.

In most respects this is forecast to be a "lucky" day. Human relationship will be helpful and harmonious in nature—friends will be real friends, and associates will boost. Anything new brought before the public eye will be favorably received.

The child born on this March 7 will have a love for luxury, and will have high aspirations. It will be extremely proud and, if given a chance, will become vain. It will have a quick temper, without malice—a flash in the pan and all will be over.

You are found to be an overwhelmingly competent person—you are indelibly stamped "capable." You possess the clear, hard brilliance of a diamond; your intellectuality is cold. You are shrewd, clever, efficient, but it is the efficiency of a machine—your head seldom lets your heart intervene. You have dignity, poise and great assurance, but you lack both magnetism and charm.

You are ultra modern in your ideas, and you have little respect for customs and traditions. You like to be a law unto yourself. You have your own codes of living, by which you are guided. It can probably be said that you live hard. You put a great deal of force and energy into everything that you do. You have very extravagant tastes and you are only suited with the best.

Successful people born March 7: Thaddeus Dod, clergyman, founder of Washington College, Pennsylvania. Goold Brown, grammarian. Richard M. Upjohn, architect. Daniel Giraud Eliot, scientist. Edward P. Roe, Presbyterian clergyman and novelist. Luther Fairbank, horticulturist.

CATHOLIC U. QUINTET TRIUMPHS, 37-32, OVER G. W.

More Holdout Worries for Griffith

Braxton and Hayes Show No Inclination to Sign.

Nats' Owner Admits He Doesn't Expect Goslin to Report.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 6.—There has been so much conversation here about Holdout Roy Spencer and the probabilities that Outfielder Goose Goslin will not be here next Sunday as ordered, that little has been said of the troubles President Clark Griffith, of the Washington Club, is having in trying to swing Pitcher Garland Braxton and Infielder Jack (Sonny Boy) Hayes into line. The fact is, however, that this pair is showing just as much stubbornness as is Goslin when it comes to putting their names on a contract.

Braxton's plan of attack is the same as that of Goslin—he is simply sitting tight and paying no attention to communications sent him by the owner of the Nationals, who admitted tonight that the last word he received from the slim southpaw star was a telegram more than a month ago, advising that Braxton had had his ailing tonsils extracted as ordered by the club physician.

Hayes is proving more of a correspondent, but is still adamant when it comes to agreeing to play with the Washington Club this season. "I met Jack part way by giving him a small increase," Griffith admitted tonight, "but Hayes wants still more. He won't get it, as I have reached my limit with him."

Chances 10 to 1 Pair Will Sign.

The chances are 10 to 1 that this pair will come into the fold ere long, but the Nats' owner admits that he does not expect Goslin to do so and already he and Manager Walter Johnson have advised the young outfielders here, Sam West, Emile (Red) Barnes and George Loepp to step on the gas and see how good a scrap they can put up for the two vacancies. Loepp signed his contract tonight after a short conference with President Griffith.

Infielder Charles (Buddie) Myer, accompanied by his wife, surprised Pilot Johnson by suddenly showing up here around lunch time today. Buddie declares that he is a little weak from the course of radio-active baths at Hot Springs, but that they and the hikes, which he took daily, have taken off some excess fat and, following a few workouts here, he expects to be in better shape than ever before to start off the season.

The new Hotel Biloxi ping pong championships were staged here tonight, with Catcher Muddy Ruel winning the title hands down. The little catcher easily is the Bill Tilden of the ping pong outfit.

West and Barnes Out of Condition.

A chilly breeze overhead with the sun conspicuous by its absence, made a change in the routine of today's drill. There was no batting, the pitchers merely warming up and all hands then indulging in a hot pepper game, completing session with a volley ball game and some track work.

Outfielder Sam West and Emile Barnes appeared to be 'almost in" after the drill. It was only the second day out for each and strenuous work outlined plus some foot pounding showed that while there may not be "a cough in a carload" of their smokes there is something in them which affects the wind. Neither apparently has done much exercising since the 1929 season close, the result being that both appeared very much down after the workout.

Bob Burke, the lanky young southpaw, who simply refused to take on weight, is beginning to show the results of his drills here and showed considerable speed. This lad is being seriously considered as a regular in the advance dope.

McKechnie to Scramble Braves in His Effort to Annoy Flag Contenders

This is the fifth of a series of first-hand Associated Press stories on major league baseball prospects.

By BRIAN BELL.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves are not going anywhere in the National League race but they would like to annoy the other clubs along the way.

Bill McKechnie, a canny Scotchman, who has won pennants for both Pittsburgh and St. Louis, is starting a four-year term as manager at Boston. McKechnie, calling himself a "pessimistic optimist" is keeping a stiff upper lip but it may be that he is hoping for the best while fearing the worst.

"Some of our best fielders are not very good hitters, we have some strong hitters whose fielding is in doubt, we are short of catchers and we have far too many left-handed batsmen," said Bill, "outside of that we are all right."

McKechnie is starting his task of building up the Braves along original lines. He is not concerned with the positions his athletes think they play. If he is convinced they can hit, he will find a place for them somewhere. As a result of this experiment, outfielders may be found in the infield, infielders catching and what have you, before the season opens in April.

Berger Shows He Can Hit.

Walter Berger, a big outfielder from Los Angeles, may find himself playing third base. He has shown that he can hit, and he has a great throwing arm, so "why not third base?" asks the Scot. Russell (Red) Rollings was a third baseman when he was with the Red Sox but if Berger strong-arms his way into that position, the Mobile, Ala., boy may be moved over into second, where Freddy Maguire did the work of a magician in the field last season but failed to cause opposing pitchers' hearts to miss a beat. The veteran Rabbit Maranville probably will be the regular shortstop when the practice period smoke clears away.

Three first basemen are available, George Sisler, Johnny Neun, former major leaguer, and Patsy Flaherty, who played football—not baseball—with the New York Giants. Sisler made 205 hits last season, the only Brave in the camp to pass the two century mark, and like Maranville he seems to grow no older. Sisler has the inside track leading to the first base job.

Lance Richbourg, one of the great outfielders of the National League, will play right field, and Earl Clark, another holdover, hardly can be improved upon for center. Randy Moore, who went places and did things for Dallas in the Texas League last summer, may complete the starting trio. With some hitting to help them, the Braves' pitchers do not present such a dismal prospect. Johnny Cooney has not thus far observed anything wrong with his arm. From last year's team Bob Smith, Ben Cantwell, Percy Jones, Bruce Cunningham, Harry Seibold and Ed Brandt back to try it again.

Alexandria High Named For State Title Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., March 6.—Alexandria High School has been chosen to represent the Eastern half of the State in the finals at the University of Virginia for the class B basket ball championship of this State, it was learned this morning, when Principal Henry Moncure received a telegram stating that the game in which Alexandria protested against Hampton High School had been awarded to the local team.

Tomorrow night Coach Reynolds will take the team to Ballston, Va., to play the Washington-Lee High School, champions of Arlington County. This is the second game between the two schools this season, the local high school winning the first by a large score. On Monday, Alexandria will leave for Charlottesville, Va. ts opponent has not been named as yet.

Adams, Hand Injured, First Cardinal Casualty

Bradenton, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—Earl "Sparky" Adams, infielder purchased from the Pittsburgh Pirates was the first Cardinal casualty of the training season. Adams injured a tendon in his left hand today, and went through the day's training program with the hand in a bandage. The injury was not believed to be serious.

Coach Wares, who gained a reputation as a clever base runner when he was a big league player, today took charge of Charley Gelbert, Ernest Orsatti and Taylor Douthit, and tried to teach them the fine points of getting a good start from a base.

Coach of G. U. Nine Awaits First Game

Smith Is Silent on Prospects Despite Veteran Squad.

Club Better Fortified in Reserves; Infield Is Intact.

By JACK ESPEY.

A VETERAN team and a new coach form the combination of which Georgetown expects much in a baseball sense this year. That sort of combination naturally would indicate successful results, but in this case neither the players nor the coach are making any boasts or predictions at this stage of the season. They are conservative and believe that actions speak louder than words.

Said action will be on view here March 28, when Coach Red Smith sends the Hoyas against the Franklin and Marshall nine on the Washington Barracks diamond in the opening of Georgetown's home schedule. Prior to that date, however, the Blue and Gray will have played three games on a Southern trip and much should be determined from those contests, which are listed with Davidson, March 20; Wake Forest, March 21, and Guilford, March 22.

Coach Smith, himself, is ultra conservative when asked about his prospects. Although he knows that the 1929 team is back virtually intact, he realizes that that fact alone does not presage a successful season this year. "I'll tell you more about my boys after I've seen them in a game," says Smith, who recently signed to take the place of Bucky O'Neill, 1929 coach.

Students Base Hopes On Veterans.

Georgetown students, however, are not so conservative, that is in respect to their confidence in the team. They fully expect to see the Blue and Gray enjoy one of its best baseball seasons, their reasoning, of course, being based on the return of a large majority of last year's players.

It does seem logical to expect better things of a team that has had a season of experience behind it. So the Georgetown students are, to a man, looking for many victories during the 32-game campaign which opens about a fortnight hence.

Ralph Duplin, captain and left fielder, and Tom Whelan, catcher, are the only two missing members of the 1929 team who were classified as "valuable." Those remaining of the club which won half of its 20 games are Capt. Ralph McCarthy, center field; Bob Wholey, right field; Johnny Bozek, first base; John Scalzi, second base; John Dunn, shortstop; Walter Morris, third base; Paul Donovan, catcher, and Hal Poole, Packy White, Ed Leary, Jack Coppinger, Tom Higgins and John Maguire, pitchers.

Sophomore Southpaw May Be Boon.

Another fact which contributes to the confidence of the Hilltop students is that several promising recruits have reported, and from this it is foreseen that the Blue and Gray will be better fortified in reserves than last spring.

The presence of Harry Nozensky, sophomore pitcher, among the newcomers, causes much of the optimism, for this husky lad is touted as a clever box performer. He is a southpaw. Last year Georgetown suffered painfully at times from weak pitching or lack of capable relief pitching.

Other recruits include Bill Lomax, George Hornyak and Mel Bauman, pitchers; Larry O'Toole and Frank Orefice, catchers; Johnny Evers, son of the famous old Chicago Cubs star, and Bill Rapp, son of the Cleveland scout, infielders; and Joe Brunini and Phil Mooney, outfielders.

Besides this group, there are several returning members of the 1929 reserves and one, Jack Tierney, a catcher, who performed in 1928. Charley "Shorty" Malone, outfielder, is the best of 1929 reserves again on hand.

Bill Killefer Silent Before Movietone

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—When two movietone outfits visited the Browns' training camp here today, Manager Bill Killefer carefully refrained from predicting where the team would finish, but Coaches Blackburne and Austin were not so conservative. Both coaches stated the team was "there."

Manager Killifer is worried over the continued absence of Pitcher Sammy Gray. Skipper Bill has not yet decided upon a line-up to use in a practice game with a Palm Beach resort team Sunday.

FOUR WOMEN GOLF ACES SURVIVE

Collett Meets Orcutt, Van Wie Plays Hicks at St. Augustine.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 6 (A. P.).—Four first ranking feminine golf stars will meet here tomorrow in the semifinals of the Florida East Coast championship.

One bracket finds Miss Glenna Collett, national woman's champion, against the resourceful Miss Maureen Orcutt, Eastern and metropolitan title holder. In the other brackett Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, the defending champion, meets little Miss Helen Hicks, of New York, who has blazed her way into the top gallery of women golfers.

Miss Collett found an outgoing 40 good enough today to bring her to the turn 4 up over Miss Lillian Holland, New York, and to end the match on the thirteenth hole, 7 and 5.

Miss Orcutt took advantage of the lack of tournament experience of Mrs. Helen Baughn, Savannah, Ga., and piled up an overwhelming score, going to the turn 5 up. The match was concluded on the thirteenth, 7 and 5. Miss Orcutt was out in 39.

Miss Van Wie's match with Miss Marion Bennett, Shuttle Meadow, Conn., ended with a 4 and 3 score. Miss Van Wie was out in 41.

Miss Hicks found the going difficult against Mrs. Stewart Hanley, veteran Detroit tournament player, and, after a grueling match, found the score all even on the fourteenth hole. On the fifteenth, Miss Hicks put down a long putt to win with a birdie, and she won the short sixteenth with a 5. Mrs. Hanley was trapped at the green on the seventeenth to lose, 3 and 1.

Ruth Sleeps Peacefully On Eve of Salary Battle

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6 (N. Y.W.N.S.).—Baseball's biggest and greatest salary dispute probably will be settled tomorrow when Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and his most valuable box office attraction, none other than Babe Ruth, meet tomorrow morning. The colonel, looking as dapper as ever, arrived here tonight and immediately went to his quarters at the Princess Martha Hotel. The "home run king" slept peacefully and is as fit as a fiddle, for his $85,000 and three-year contract battle with the good colonel.

The Babe once more refused to discuss his salary dispute at the workout this morning. It is rumored, however, that if he agrees to a two-year contract at $75,000 a year, which the Yankees have offered him, he will demand part of the receipts of the exhibition games. A share of these profits would easily give the Babe $10,000 if the two games against the Robins at the stadium are included in his demands.

Ruth's Batting Beats Gehrig's Team, 3-1

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6 (A.P.). Babe Ruth's war club struck the deciding blow as the New York Yankees' Yannigans trimmed Lou Gehrig's Regulars, 3 to 1, in a practice game today. The Babe cracked out a long triple and a single for exactly half of the Yannigans' hits off Rhodes and Andrews. The Regulars got only five safeties off George Pipgras and Americus Polli.

Greatest Improvement Foreseen for Tigers

Tampa, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—It appears now that the Detroit Tigers' list of regulars this year will show more changes from last season than that of any other American League team.

The showing made by all recruits in the training camp here has convinced critics of the support that a team which would be far from weak can be assembled with every regular of 1929 replaced.

Werber and Councillor Given All-Dixie Berths

Bill Werber, guard, and Harry Councillor, forward, both former Tech High court stars, who have starred with Duke University Fives the past three seasons, have been named positions on the All-Southern Basket Ball Team selected by the Associated Press, it was announced last night. Hood, of Alabama, center; McBrayer, of Kentucky, guard, and Corbitt, of Tennessee, forward, complete the line-up of the mythical quintet.

Cardinals End Long Losing Streak

C. U. Clinches Game in Second Half as Reilly Stars.

Colonials Triumph in Freshman Battle by 33-29 Score.

By JACK ESPEY.

TERMINATING long, weary weeks of defeat which they had lost 19 straight games, the Catholic University Basket Ball Tossers last night gained a victory "sweeter than sweet" over their ancient foes, the George Washington Colonials, by a score of 37 to 32 on the H Street Court before a capacity crowd of 500.

The game marked the close of the season for both teams, the result giving Catholic a record of three wins and 19 consecutive losses and Gorge Washington nine wins and seven losses. It also evened the season's series between the two, G. W. having won the game played previously at Brookland by 23 to 21.

In spite of the intense feeling of rivalry and memories of their last clash in which disorder was threatened, both teams kept their minds solely on basket ball throughout with the result that excitement seekers had to be content with an exhibition of plain, hard-fought basket ball.

Connor Withdraws Freshman Ace.

In fact, the varsity game seemed tame compared to the fast preliminary, in which the G. W. Freshmen avenged an earlier defeat by taking the Cardinal yearlings into camp, 33 to 29. The first-year players went at it hammer and tongs from the opening whistle and forced the officials to play steadily on their whistles for rule infractions.

But even then good sportsmanship found its way into the proceedings as Coach Jack Connor, of George Washington, made the grand gesture in the waning moments, when his team was leading by a slim margin. At this stage Catholic was forced to proceed with only four players, owing to losses through the personal-foul route, but Connor withdrew his star, Forrest Burgess, to leave the G. W. Cubs with the same number as their foes.

The opening of the program was delayed 45 minutes by a dispute over the eligibility of Burgess, but the respective authorities finally came to an agreement on that score.

The Cardinal varsity played its best game of the season and fully deserved victory. It held the lead at most stages and executed effective "freezing" tactics during the last three minutes.

"Wild Bill" Reilly, Catholic guard, stole the role of scoring leader from Joe Walsh, his fiery little captain who in all previous C. U. games had borne the offensive burden in amazing fashion. Reilly put on a "hot hand" in the second half which placed the contest beyond G. W.'s reach. He totaled six field goals and two foul points for the night, while Walsh accumulated two fielders and three one-pointers. Walsh did, however, perform valuable work in passing and defense.

George Washington suffered through the inability of its luminary, Irving Fine, to find his scoring eye in the first half, which closed with C. U. ahead by 18 to 15. When Fine finally struck his stride in the second half, Reilly was running wild for Catholic, so his shooting only enabled G. W. to keep within hailing distance.

4 Miles Per Minute in Auto Aim, Kaye Don, Here, Says

FOUR miles a minute is the ambition of Kaye Don, of England, who arrived in Washington last night enroute to Daytona Beach, where he will attempt to pilot his Silver Bullet Sunbeam to a new world record within the next few weeks.

Although the designers and engineers have set 270 miles an hour as the goal for the Silver Bullet, the man who will pilot the new creation will be well satisfied with any speed greater than 240 miles per hour.

Don, with his staff of assistants and his sister, Mrs. Rita Livesey, arrived in New York Wednesday, and after seeing the Silver Bullet safely on its way to Daytona Beach, hurried to Washington. They plan to leave for Florida this afternoon. Don is anxious to start preliminary tests, which he says will require four days, before making his first attempt to shatter Maj. Segrave's record.

Machine Built for One Purpose.

The Silver Bullet was built for one purpose only—that of setting a new world record—Don says, and every part, even the nuts and bolts, has been manufactured with that express purpose in view. The car differs in many features from those of other cars that have rolled over the hard sands at record speeds.

He was especially desirous to correct statements that have been made to the effect that aviation motors have been installed. Two twelve-cylinder motors, especially designed for the car and very different from those used in previous record attempts, are employed.

Car Has Many Features.

The streamlining of the Silver Bullet is at least a 10 per cent improvement over that of any previous design, the cooling system much more effective and the steering apparatus unparalleled in automotive engineering, Don said.

Don is the outstanding racing car driver of England, having held the championship the past two years.

TOURNAMENT basket ball—that brand of tense court play which sends every team and every player into action battling against elimination—will again be afforded Washington fans starting Monday night when the first annual championship games of the District A. A. U. get under way at the Tech High Gymnasium, sponsored by The Washington Post.

The thrilling exhibitions which marked the three South Atlantic A. A. U. tournaments staged here by The Post are again expected and the luck of the draw aided the basket ball committee in arranging a four-game program for Monday night which should provide a maximum of action and keen rivalry.

It is fitting that the Woltz Photographers, 1929 District A. A. U. champions, should be scheduled in the feature of the opening night's program. Woltz has continued the fine brand of basket ball which carried it to the city title last year. This team won the Community Center League championship and has a remarkable record in independent games.

St. Martin's Followers See Chance to Win.

Practically every player on the Woltz Team has been a recognized star for the past few seasons. Its starting line-up will include Jack Forney, Bucky Buscher, Bill Banta, Peewee Walker and Carl MacCartee, the latter captain of the champion Tech High Quintet.

At that, many basket ball followers, and particularly the members and rooters of the St. Martin's Five, believe that Woltz faces a chance of elimination in its opening contest. St. Martin's has a fair record for the season, and if the club, managed by "Cox" Harrington, is "hot," Woltz players may see the remainder of the tournament from the stands.

The other unlimited game Monday night will find the Montrose A. C. Five, which has supplied stars for Western High School during the past five years, meeting the Pontiacs. This game will mark a reunion of the Thompson brothers, who starred for Western last year. Jim Thompson, this year's captain, rejoins the Montrose and his brother, Herbie, for the tournament. Montrose also gains the services of Bob Freeman, unanimous selection for all-high center.

130-Pound Contest Is "Natural."

While the Pontiacs lack the ballyhoo of their opponents, their ability to play topnotch basket ball has been proven and they are considered a match for the Georgetown clubmen.

The 130-pound contest is one of the few early games looked upon as a "natural." The J. C. C. Flashes, semi-finalist last year, have lost only two games in two years and they are meeting one of the strongest 130-pound clubs in this vicinity in the Arcadians.

Church teams, which have enjoyed successful campaigns, will clash in the 145-pound contest. The Calvary Drakes, who did well in the Community Center League, will be facing the crack Wallace Memorial quintet.

5 DIXIE MAT TEAMS IN TOURNEY

3 Virginia Colleges, 2 From Carolina Seek Conference Title.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 6.—Entries for the first annual Southern Conference wrestling tournament to be held at Virginia Military Institute on Friday and Saturday have been received from five of the seven conference institutions represented by mat teams. V. M. I., V. P. I., Washington and Lee, Duke and North Carolina will battle for team and individual championships.

The Washington and Lee Generals undefeated during the season, are pretournament favorites, with V. M. I., defeated only by the Navy, close behind. The other three teams have strong individual entries that cause all three instead of only one to be regarded as "dark horses."

The contestants will weigh in Friday morning, and the preliminary matches will be held in the Jackson Memorial Hall at 3:30 p. m. Semi-final bouts will be staked at 7:30 Friday night. Finals in all eight weights as well as consolation bouts for second and third places will be held at 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

Three Places Count In Standing.

Three places, counting 5, 3 and 1, will be used to determine the team standing. In addition each wrestler can add one point to his team's total for each fall that he secures at any time during the preliminary, semifinal or final bouts.

Spectators Saturday night at the final and consolation bouts will be treated to a two-ringed wrestling circus, as Maj. Blandy Clarkson, V. M. I. athletic director, plans to use two mats with bouts running simultaneously on account of the large number of elimination bouts that will be required to determine second and third places in each weight class. This plan was successfully followed at the 1924 and 1928 Virginia Olympic wrestling try-outs jointly sponsored by V. M. I. and Washington and Lee.

Blair High Trounces Damascus Five, 56-23

With four of its players running their individual scores into double figures, the Blair High School had little trouble in defeating Damascus, 56 to 23, yesterday at the Silver Spring High School. Williams, Walker, Mygatt and Christie were the four to count heavily for the winners. The Damascus Team was almost a family affair, four of the five players being Burdettes.

The Blair Team will travel to Frederick, Md., today, where it meets Westminster High in the first game of the State tournament.

Swavely Ends Season Winning 11 of 15 Games

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., March 6.—Eleven victories in fifteen games gave Swavely Prep its most successful basket ball season in the year just ended. The four teams gaining a verdict over the local five were Episcopal, Emerson Prep, Western and Business High Schools, the latter three from Washington, D. C. However, Swavely also defeated Episcopal, Western and Business in one of the two games staged.

A combination of Barkham and Ovrom, forwards; Nemeth, center, and Kesel and Potter, guards, brought Swavely victory in five of the first seven games played. A severe blow was dealt the team at the end of the first term in January, when Nemeth, the high scorer, and Potter, were forced to leave the school. A 20-19 victory over the Western Team was later evened by that foe with a 46-42 defeat, while Business, which took the measure of Swavely in the first game, was defeated 33-32 in the return match.

Army to Make Debut In College Polo Series

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—For the first time in its history the United States Military Academy has entered a team in the national intercollegiate indoor polo championships which begin here March 22, it was announced today.

On that date the Army Team will meet Harvard in a semifinal, while Yale plays Princeton in a first-round encounter. Pennsylvania Military College plays the winner of the Yale-Princeton contest in a semifinal match March 27, and on March 29 the final battle for the championship is scheduled.

Four schools will compete for the interscholastic title—Culver Military Academy, of Culver, Ind.; the Hun School, Princeton, N. J.; Lawrenceville, Lawrenceville, N. J., and Andover, Andover, Mass. The dates are March 27 and March 29.

Harvard won the college crown last year and Berkshire-New England, which is not competing this season, the school championship.

Trieze Wins in Gallop In Agua Caliente Mud

Agua Caliente, Mexico, March 6 (A.P.).—Dashing into the front at the three-quarters pole, Trieze, one of the Lewis & Kemp string, won as his rider pleased the Oceanside Handicap, today's feature. Mrs. J. A. Parson's Seth's Hope was second and the Three Ds Stock Farm's Calf Roper, in his first race since being brought from New Orleans, was third. The winner was the favorite and paid $4.20 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Trieze appeared to like the muddy going and was held back for half the distance. Eight lengths separated the winner from Seth's Hope. The latter was outpaced in the early running, but finished well. Calf Roper was never hard urged and passed Dr. Wilson in the stretch. The latter tired. Edisto, the only other starter, quit.

NIEMIEC SIGNS AS COACH.

Houston, Tex., March 6 (A.P.).—Johnny Niemiec, 1928 Notre Dame half back and one of the country's outstanding gridiron players, today signed a contract as assistant football coach at Rice Institute.

PENN ENTERS 4 IN A. A. U. GAMES

Berlinger Will Head Group in Titular Meet Mar. 18.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Philadelphia will be represented by four of its outstanding track and field athletes in the National Amateur A. A. U. championships of America at Madison Square Garden, March 18. The quartet will be headed by Barney Berlinger, the finest all-around athlete ever developed at the University of Pennsylvania. He will compete in the pole vault and 16-pound shot put.

Another product of Lawson Robertson's coaching, but not eligible to represent Pennsylvania, having competed on the varsity team for the past three years, is George W. McCoy, who carried the Red and Blue into third place in the intercollegiate high hurdle championship last spring in near record time. McCoy will compete in the 70-yard high hurdle championship.

Lamoine Boyle, Penn's great broad jumper, who broke the intercollegiate record last Saturday night on one of his foul jumps, will compete in the 60-yard dash and standing jumps, and Alfred H. Baier, of the Meadowbrook Club, the fourth member of the Philadelphia team, will engage in the same events.

Entries for these championships close March 8 at A. A. U. office, here.

DIXIE MEET DRAWS 300 ATHLETES

10 Conference Teams Compete Saturday at Chapel Hill.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 6.—A total of more than 300 trackmen from every section of the South will compete in the first Southern Conference indoor games at the University of North Carolina Saturday night.

Final check on entries was made today, and revealed the fact that this first Southern championship meet will draw a field greater and larger than any ever seen in the South.

Ten Southern Conference institutions will send teams for the varsity events. Eight institutions will send delegations for the freshman events. Ten high and prep schools will send men for the scholastic events.

The total field is larger than 300.

The Southern Conference teams entered are Duke, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina, Tulane, Virginia and Washington and Lee.

Eight Freshmen Teams Enter.

The freshman teams entered are Duke, North Carolina, Elon, Georgia Tech, Presbyterian College, Virginia, Washington and Lee and Davidson.

The high and prep schools sending teams are Augusta Military Academy, Charlotte High, Asheville High, Georgia Military Academy, High Point High, Hyattsville High School of Maryland, Wilmington High, Tech High of Atlanta, Greensboro High and Goldsboro High.

There will be twelve varsity events, seven scholastic events and four freshman events, combined into the greatest indoor track program ever arranged in the South. All events will be held in the Tin Can, the university's big indoor sports home, with preliminaries beginning at 4 o'clock and finals at 6:45 o'clock.

27 Central Swimmers In Baltimore Races

Twenty-seven Central High School swimmers will journey to Baltimore tomorrow to take part in the nineteenth annual interscholastic championship swimming races to be held at the Baltimore Athletic Club. Eight events are to be held and Central is expected to enter contestants in each.

In the 160-yard relay race, Central will enter two four-man teams each man to swim 40 yards. The Blue and White natators have been especially successful in the sport this year, having captured seven of the ten meets in which they have engaged. The Yale Freshmen, Navy Plebes and Tome Prep the only teams holding decisions over Capt. Varela and his men.

Three more meets will remain on Central's schedule after tomorrow, the national scholastic championships on March 15, the A. A. U. local meet on March 29, and the scholastic meet at the University of Pittsburgh.

Central Schedules Richmond Eleven

The first of a series of home-and-home games with the John Marshall High School of Richmond, Va., is the only contest that has been scheduled for the 1930 Central High Football Team, it was announced by Coach Ty Rauber yesterday. The John Marshall School will be met on the Richmond gridiron next fall and will come here in 1931. The rest of the Central schedule will not be completed for more than a month.

That John Marshall will prove no set-up is attested by its sweeping triumph over Newport News last fall, when it defeated that eleven, 30-0, Newport News being the school which fought a 7-7 tie with Devitt Prep, acknowledged the leading schoolboy team of the District last fall.

INDUSTRIAL STOCKS TOUCH 1930 PEAKS

Score of Shares Climb as Open Market Credit Rates Decline.

INDEX LIST ADVANCES

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—With a fresh decline in open market credit rates to levels regarded as clearly indicating a lower Federal Reserve rediscount, together with a cut in the Bank of England rate, professional traders bid up more than a score of leading industrial shares to record levels for the recovery in today's stock market, only to learn after the close of the market that the reserve directors at their weekly meeting had left the rediscount rate unchanged at 4 per cent.

Call loans, after renewals at 4 per cent, were available at 3½, the lowest since January, 1928, and bankers acceptance rates were cut to 3½ per cent, bid, for the shorter maturities, for the first time since March of the same year. While the Federal Reserve officials are understood to have been divided on the advisability of a further reduction in the rediscount rate, Wall street felt that with call loans and acceptances ½ of 1 per cent lower, a downward revision seemed assured. There has been considerable agitation for a lower Federal Reserve rate in the hope that it might hasten the rather tardy cheapening of credit for commerce loans.

As to whether the reserve is merely delaying the reduction in its rate, or has launched upon a policy of releasing credit through open market purchases of bills and securities rather than loaning to member banks, was a problem left for Wall street to puzzle over. The latter theory gained some support from reports that the reserve was a large buyer of Government securities, several of which sold at new high levels for the year. It was recalled that the reserve lowered its buying rate for bankers' acceptances, while increasing in rediscount rate last August, when it hoped to curb speculation, while at the same time making funds available for legitimate commercial purposes.

Reserve Officials Cautious.

Reserve officials are undoubtedly chary of taking any action that might stimulate a new bull orgy on the stock market, or which would let the credit situation get out of its hands, as it did a year ago. Furthermore, the governor of the Philadelphia Reserve institution recently explained that there is a feeling in reserve circles that a lower rediscount rate at this time would not prove an important stimulus to business. It has been pointed out that cheap credit to business is helpful only when business sees an opportunity to use such credit profitably. Commercial borrowings of late have been declining rather rapidly.

During recent months, the reserve has kept its rate one-half of 1 per cent below the Bank of England rate to prevent losses of gold from London to New York. With Gov. Harrison, of the New York bank, now in London, Wall street was inclined to the theory that a similar understanding must still exist. It is possible, however, that the low acceptance rates in the New York market, now about on par with London, may prevent a flow of gold in this direction, without cutting the bank rate. Furthermore, sterling exchange did not weaken with the lower rate in London, rather was firmer.

While the stock market made good headway, the index of 90 leading issues rising nearly 2 points to a new 1930 peak, it did not display the marked bouyance that it frequently did in the past on substantial cheapening of credit. The weekly brokerage loan total showed an increase of $94,000,000, the largest weekly gain since September, with the exception of the week at the turn of the year, when unusual conditions prevailed. While loans still hold relatively low, this abrupt gain was interpreted as reflecting a movement away from the investment character of the buying of the past several weeks.

Westinghouse Touches Peak.

The electric equipments were notably strong. General Electric and Allis Chalmers rose a couple of points to new peaks, and Westinghouse Electric rose more than 5 points to close to its best 1930 level. The domestic and Porto Rican sugar stocks gained 2 or 3 points in response to the Senate's approval of a higher sugar tariff. U. S. Steel gained about 4 and American Can 2. Bendix, Goodyear, Engineer's Public Service, Stone & Webster, Missouri Pacific, and Vanadium mounted 2 to 4 points to new 1930 tops. Gains in the utilities were moderate, and on the whole the rails made little headway. Worthington Pump was a buoyant feature, mounting about 13 points, and closing near the top.

Commodities again broke sharply, only to rebound before the end of the day. Wheat futures dropped about 2 cents, then rallied nearly 3 on short covering and farm board support. Cotton dropped $2 a bale to new lows for the season, but reduced its losses to from 25 cents to $1.15 a bale at the close.

Foreign exchanges were featured by a rally of nearly ½-cent in the Spanish peseta, which touched 12.12 cents. Sterling cables gained near ¼-cent, ruling at 4.87 7-32.

BOND SALES CLIMB; MONEY RATES EASE

Most Active Day of 1930 Displays Strength in Many Groups.

MANY PEAKS REACHED

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—An unusual easing in money rates was accompanied by a substantial buying movement in high-grade bonds today. So far as seasoned investment issues were concerned, it was the most active market session of the year, and the volume of nearly $14,000,000 has been exceeded only once since January 1; that exception was accounted for by heavy trading in a single convertible.

Developments came rapidly in the credit situation. The Bank of England reduced its discount rate to 4 per cent, giving rise to expectations that the New York Federal Reserve Bank rate would be cut to 3½, which it failed to do, although it announced that the buying rate on acceptances had been set at 3½ per cent. Leading dealers made a further reduction, the third in as many days, in acceptances. Ninety-day time money dropped from 4½ to 4¼ per cent, and quotations of 4 per cent were obtained on the 30-day maturity. In addition, call money, after renewing at 4 per cent, eased off to 3½, the lowest since January, 1928.

Responding to this one-way movement, the important divisions of the bond market developed considerable buoyancy. Seven United States Government issues touched new highs for the year or longer, and nearly a score of first-grade rails did likewise. Investment utilities climbed more slowly, but made a good average gain. At the close the composite price of 30 representative bonds stood at 99 compared with the 1930 high of 99.1 and 98.4, the low.

Gilt-Edge Rails Climb.

Numerous gilt-edge rails moved up a point or more as large investments funds sought employment in the market. Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville 5s, Burlington 4s, Illinois Central 4¾s, Louisville & Nashville 4½s, Pennsylvania 4¾s, Reading General 4½s, Southern Pacific refunding 4s and Southern Railway general 6½s advanced from 1 to nearly 2 points, several attaining new highs on the move. Peak prices were also made by St. Louis & San Francisco prior lien 4s, Morris & Essex 5s, New Haven 4½s, Kansas City Southern 5s and first 3s and Rock Island 4½s.

American Telephone debenture 5s of 1965 went to 102, a new high. Brooklyn, Manhattan Transit 6s and International Telephone 5s also broke their previous maximums. There was excellent inquiry for Utah Power & Light 5s, Utah Light & Traction 5s, Western Union Gold 5s and Columbia Gas & Electric 5s.

In the industrial group, Anglo-Chile Nitrate 7s close at the 1930 peak of 93¾ for a 1¾-point gain. Lorillard debenture 5½s rose ¾ to a top price of 91½. Sinclair Crude Oil 5½s were very active, but moved narrowly. United Drug of Delaware 5s rose a point.

Missouri Pacific Active.

The strength of the rails extended to several secondary carrier obligations, notably Missouri Pacific general 6s, which advanced ⅞ on a large volume.

Convertibles were relatively quiet. American Telephone 4½s gained ½ net. Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s and Texas Corporation 5s were active and firm. International Telephone 4½s advanced 2 and Parmelee Transportation 6s slightly more than a point.

Treasury 4¼s led the Governments with a rise of 25-32 to 112.25. Advances of about half a point were made by the other Treasurys. Libertys were less active, although the 3½s touched par.

Belgian issues continued to improve. Berlin City Electric 6½s and Milan City 6½s made new 1930 maximums.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Purity Baking and Others.

J. A. B.—Would appreciate your opinion of the following stocks, which I hold at prices indicated. If not consistent with your policy, I would like to know what you think of them: Purity Baking, at 60; Gold Dust, 36; Blue Ridge, preferred, 34; American Cyanamid B, 25; Standard Brands, 27, and Louisiana Land & Exploration, at 4.

Answer—With the exception of Louisiana Land & Exploration, which is highly speculative, all of the stocks, with one exception show you a profit at this writing, and they are paying fairly substantial dividends. Of the lot, Purity Baking, Gold Dust and Standard Brands appear to be the most desirable to be held for the long pull.

Several Stocks.

Miss C. F. S.—Please give me your opinion of Electric Bond & Share and Associated Gas & Electric A. A friend of mine bought the former and I the latter. I hold some Cities Service. Would you advise adding to my holdings in this stock?

Answer—Electric Bond & Share and Associated Gas & Electric are both holding companies, and the stocks have some attractiveness for long-time holding. The companies appear to be under capable management and earnings have been in fair. Electric Bond, aside from controlling the American Foreign Power Co., owns a substantial interest in other public utility properties. Net earnings for the year ended June 30, last, equalled $2.58 a share on the common, on the basis of recapitalization. Earnings for 1928, adjusted to the present capitalization, were $1.10 per share on the junior issue. Nothing in cash is paid, the dividend being in the form of 6 per cent annually in stock. Associated Gas A pays $2.40 per annum, which includes extras. Cities Service looks attractive at present prices. Earnings have been good over a period of years, and the company carries on diversified line of business. The stock is regarded as a conservative investment issue.

Thermoid Co.

G. E.—I am a stockholder in the Thermoid Co. What are the prospects for this company?

Answer.—The prospects appear to be good. The company is quite a factor in the manufacture of asbestos lining, turning out a product for new and old equipment. In the first six months last year, earnings equaled $2.28 per share, which was sufficient for the whole year's dividend of $2 per share. For the full twelve months of 1928 profits were equivalent to $3.91 on the outstanding shares. The stock has attractiveness for long term possession.

G. K. R.—Do you consider Pilot Radio & Tube suitable as an investment to be held over the long term?

Answer.—Pilot Radio & Tube is dealt in on the New York Curb Exchange and the record of the present company and its predecessors in the radio and electrical parts business may be considered good. The company has taken over the plant of the Everett mills in New England, where it plans to increase production of its products on a large scale and also manufacture parts for television machines and complete television sets for the home. Earnings and profits have shown a good increase last year, and income for the current twelve months is expected to be good as a result of the company's entrance into the television field. Pilot Radio has a Federal Radio license to broadcast television, and recently acquired, through an exchange of stock, the Twin Coupler Co. and the Detroit Radio Tube Co. Pilot Radio pays a dividend of $1.20 annually and at its present price yields about 9 per cent. The stock may be regarded as an investment issue for long term holding, as the company is not an ordinary radio concern, but does a large business in the manufacture of electrical equipment.

Midland Home Building Co.

L. F. S.—Can you give me some information concerning the Midland Home Building & Loan Association, Inc., of Baltimore, Md.? Would you consider the purchase of their common memberships an investment? I understand they have increased in price from $2.50 to $3 a share.

Answer—Inasmuch as these "memberships" or shares are not listed on any of the exchanges and can not even be found in the over-the-counter market, no expression of opinion as to their present or prospective value can be given. Judging from their extremely low price, they can by no means be classified as an investment.

JONES REGARDED AS NEXT MAYOR

Alexandria Is Surprised by Smoot's Submission of Resignation.

PRAISED BY OFFICIALS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

William Albert Smoot, mayor and member of the city council since the adoption of the council-manager form of government in 1922, submitted his resignation to the city council yesterday. Immediately following the reading of the mayor's letter of resignation by the clerk of the council, Councilman Timberman moved that the resignation be received and held over. Mr. Timberman then addressed the council, saying he believed he voiced the feeling of the other members when he expressed his deep regret that Mayor Smoot is retiring from public life. As the president of the council, he said, Mr. Smoot's uniform courtesy and splendid consideration toward each member will remain as a pleasant memory. In his capacity of councilman, he said Mr. Smoot was always interested in the public welfare; that no matter was ever introduced in the council without being weighed carefully by the mayor to determine, as far as was humanly possible, whether or not it was for the public good; that the public will sustain a decided loss, since Mr. Smoot placed the public interest first in every matter that was brought before the council, and that his willingness to admit at all times into the meetings of the council any citizen or body of citizens who wished to be heard has endeared him to the public.

Councilmen Ticer, Fannon and Jones all spoke, indorsing the remarks of Mr. Timberman, and adding their personal regrets.

The resignation of the mayor came as a distinct surprise to all but a very few who were in his confidence.

Several weeks ago the mayor tendered to the council his resignation as chairman of the board of the District Home at Manassas, giving the demands of his personal business as a reason. In his letter, which follows, he explains his position fully.

The City Council,
Alexandria, Va.

Gentlemen—Two years ago, when I was reelected to the city council, it seemed to me that it was best to hold office until the annexation proceedings were finally settled and I also wanted to help all I could with the Mount Vernon Highway, but as both of these vital problems have been settled so advantageously for Alexandria and as our city's affairs are thoroughly and well organized I feel that it is now necessary for me to devote my entire time to my own affairs.

On this account, I am herewith tendering my resignation as a member of the city council and ask that this resignation be accepted as soon as possible.

I consider it a pleasure and privilege to have been associated with those men who have made up the city council since 1922 and those who have held both the city and State offices in Alexandria as well as the heads of the different city departments, the city employes and the volunteer firemen, and I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of them for their many courtesies and their staunch support.

It is not possible for me to properly thank the people of Alexandria, as I do not believe a public official has ever enjoyed more loyal support and consistent kindness from so large a group of men and women as go to make up this fine old city, and my only hope is that the things I have worked so hard to help to accomplish during the past eight years will partially repay them for their generosity to me.

Alexandria is now going ahead fast and the next few years are going to see the greatest development this city has ever known and my earnest hope is that our citizens will have the wisdom, vision and industry to unitedly take full advantage of the great opportunities which are just ahead of us.

Once more expressing my deep gratitude to the people of Alexandria, and to all of those who have worked with me during the past eight years, I am,

Respectfully yours,
W. A. SMOOT, Mayor.

Regarding a successor to Mayor Smoot, it is pointed out that the State law provides that the city council, in the event of a vacancy, shall elect the successor to serve out the unexpired term of the retiring member, and it is assumed that action looking to election by the council of a new member will be taken shortly. In the meantime, three other places will be vacant, owing to expiration of terms, and there are now no less than eight candidates for the three vacancies, the majority of them being subject to the Democratic primary which will be held April 1. Those elected to fill these vacancies will have terms of four years, while the choice of the council to succeed Mayor Smoot will serve until September 1, 1932.

Councilman Robert S. Jones, vice mayor, presided at yesterday's meeting and it is believed he will be chosen mayor and serve as such until the expiration of his term, September 1, when the council will reorganize and select a mayor, or chairman of the council, as he is officially known. Mr. Jones is one of those who have announced that they will not be candidates for reelection.

A resolution was introduced providing for a temporary loan of $50,000, for general expenses of the city, in anticipation of the collection of taxes for the current year, the note to be for 90 days with privilege of renewal if desired. This resolution was held over under the rules, and in connection with this, City Manager Lawrence stated that the recent bond issue, for which the city received $735,000, the city paid $502,500 to Arlington County under the recent annexation award; paid to the First National Bank on notes between $199,000 and $200,000; curtailed $15,000 on tempgrary loans or notes assumed by the city as obligations of the Town of Potomac, and paid $15,500 for the new aerial truck recently purchased for the fire department. He stated he did not believe any of this money would be required before April 1, as the city has now operated for two months on the current receipts, but that on April 1 payments of interest and principal on some of the city's bonds will be due.

A resolution was also introduced, and held over, to appropriate $2,500 for the purpose of making a complete survey and designs for sanitary sewers in the recently annexed territory.

The Alexandria Iron Works was granted a permit for the installation of a private gasoline tank and pump on their property.

An application of the National Kel Lac Co. for permit to install an advertising electric clock on top of the building at the northwest corner of King and Columbus streets was granted. L. H. Cohn appeared before the council in the interest of his company.

A request from Miss Marguerite C. Landon for installation of a street light at Russell road and Braddock terrace and for the placing of cinders on Maple avenue and Braddock terrace was denied, it being explained that the city manager is giving attention to the territory in question and will later make his recommendation to the council.

The city manager reported, in connection with the request of property owners on Alexandria avenue for payment to them by the city for the installation of the sewer on that avenue, that this comes in the same category as other city sewers, for which property owners are required to pay $2 a front foot for their property, and recommended that the request be denied, which recommendation was approved.

A communication was read from Carroll Pierce, president of the Citizens National Bank, regarding a promise by the officials of the Town of Potomac to deposit in his bank $66 as interest and sinking fund on sewer bonds of Potomac, and the city manager reported that he had written Mr. Pierce that no money has been appropriated in the 1930 budget of Alexandria for the purpose of creating a sinking fund, or continuance of the sinking fund for Potomac bonds, and that he would bring the matter to the attention of the council. A resolution was adopted providing that this communication would be given further consideration at an informal meeting of the council.

The city school board has appropriated $225 as its share toward increasing the library facilities in all of the city schools, this appropriation to be supplemented by the State library fund and contributions by the school children, through the Parent-Teacher Association.

A meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Elks' Home at 8 o'clock tonight in the interest of the candidacy of Judge Howard W. Smith for Congress to succeed Representative R. Walton Moore, of the Eighth Virginia District.

This meeting is being called by a number of the friends of Judge Smith for the purpose of perfecting plans for conducting his campaign. It has been called by Attorney Gardner L. Boothe, who has urged all active supporters of Judge Smith's candidacy to be present.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Talbott, widow of Silas Talbott, died yesterday at her home near Mount Vernon. The body was taken to Cunningham's funeral home, and the funeral will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon from Accotink Methodist Church. Burial will be in the cemetery at Accotink.

Mrs. Talbott is survived by a son, Louis Talbott, and a daughter, Mrs. Annie Riley, of the Mount Vernon District.

REPORT IS REJECTED ON APPROPRIATIONS

House of Delegates Spurns Conference Measure at Richmond.

DELAY IN CLOSING SEEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., March 6.—The House of Delegates this afternoon rejected the conference committee report on the general appropriations bill, 61 to 32, and thereby endangered the adjournment date for Saturday, while the Senate passed, among other bills, the Hall chain store tax bill, which would impose an additional tax of $50 on each store over five of a chain.

Rejection of the appropriations bill conference report came as a bit of a surprise, and the outcome now is in more doubt than ever. The House failed to accept the measure, which, in reality, was a victory for the House, in that the conferees had cut out practically all salary increases added by the Senate last week.

The same conferees were reappointed and tonight were working hard to get a second report. There is not much hope, however, that that group will be able to agree on anything that is agreeable to both House and Senate. The House apparently was in "a politically ugly mood" and was ready, it appeared, to stay by for a week or longer after the end of the session in order to get what it wants. There was a long debate on the chain store tax bill, which was amended by Senator Buchanan so as to apply to chains of five or more stores rather than to chains of "more than one," and amendment, which according to its patron, Wilbur C. Hall, of Loudoun, makes the measure clearly unconstitutional. He will, he said, ask the House to refuse the amendment.

The Senate killed the Hall bill that would make it a misdemeanor for any county treasurer to fail to return as delinquent any taxpayer who by the expiration of the time limit, had not paid his taxes. It is the practice of treasurers in some instances, it was explained, to tear tax tickets out of their books and save them until such time as it was convenient for the taxpayers to settle. This, it was alleged by proponents of the measure, led often to shortages, and has resulted in defalcations at times. Bonds required of treasurers, it was said, now require almost a prohibitive premium.

Both houses passed a considerable number of local and uncontested measures, but the House, rather early, got into a deadlock over the appropriations bill which was not disposed of until near the close of an extra afternoon session. The House held the third session of the day tonight, to clear its calendar. The Senate likewise held its morning session and an afternoon session as well. The regular session will close at midnight Saturday, but because of the state of the appropriations bill it is feared that it will be necessary to continue the session into next week.

MILL WORKERS SEEK STRIKE SETTLEMENT

President of Local Union Makes Overtures in Elizabethton.

PICKETS STONE BUSES

Elizabethton, Tenn., March 6 (A.P.). J. C. Donnelly, president of the local of the United Textile Workers of America, late today made overtures to the American Bemberg and American Glanzstoff Textile Mills for a settlement of a strike called Monday in protest of a "stretch-out" system and alleged discrimination against union members.

Donnelly sent a formal notice to the officials of the plants, who previously had said there was no strike. The mill officials in a statement last night declared that while there was no strike, there was "a demonstration of unemployed who have gathered here from all sections of the Appalachian district."

The mill statement also said that practically none of those involved in the demonstrations had ever been employed in either plant.

Buses Are Stoned.

Donnelly previously had said that at least 700 persons had been dismissed in recent weeks due to installation of new machinery and because of union activities.

Disturbances again occurred in the Stoney Creek section today, where pickets stoned buses and automobiles transporting workers to the mills, but no one was injured.

Shortly after the rock-throwing incident in Stoney Creek Donnelly issued a statement here declaring that he had cautioned pickets against violence and warned that they acted on their own responsibility in such tactics. He said "the union will stand behind them in anything they do as union men to help the union cause."

Pickets Not Armed.

Bob Cole, chief picket, declared today that his men were not armed and never had been, but added, "If it does come to that, my men are not going to be defenseless."

Through the afternoon the situation was quiet. No pickets have attempted to assemble near the mills since Monday afternoon, when an injunction prohibiting them from molesting employes, congregating on mill property or on any highway in Carter or any other county used for transporting workers to and from the plants.

William Fair, in charge of deputies sheriff guarding mill property, yesterday declared warrants were being prepared for a number of pickets on charges of violating the injunction, but so far no effort has been made to serve them.

Three Men, Girl Held in Slaying

Four, Arrested in Virginia, Turned Over to Police of New Jersey.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., March 6.—Three men and a girl, arrested at Woodbridge in this county Saturday on charges of vagrancy, today were taken to Elizabeth, N. J., and turned over to police there in connection with the murder of a man last week.

They gave their names as E. Denecke, 23 years old; J. E. Gay, 22 years old; Pat Gallagher, 24 years old, and Myrtle Osowie, 16 years old, all of Elizabeth.

The four were taken in custody by Prince William County Constable M. A. Lynch after the girl, according to the policeman, told him that they were penniless and that the men planned to rob a grocery store Saturday night at Woodbridge. Held in Manassas for vagrancy, they appeared Monday in juvenile court before Judge J. C. Parrish, who charged the men with contributing to the delinquency of the girl as a minor.

The special committee consisting of Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax; Joseph Berry, of Vienna, and Mrs. Olaf Saugstadt, of Wellington Villa, appointed by the county board of supervisors last year at the request of the Fairfax County Bar Association to consider requests for hanging portraits in the courthouse, have accepted a painting of the late William E. Graham that was offered by his widow, Mrs. Fannie E. Graham, of Washington. The committee also recommended that the portraits on the walls of the courtroom be regrouped.

Before he was appointed as clerk, in 1885, he had served as assistant to his father, who held the office before him. After the consolidation, F. W. The State highway department has completed the fill on the approaches to the bridge over Little Hunting Creek on the Washington-Richmond highway. The old bridge was recently widened and the new section of the bridge has been opened to traffic. The guard rail has been moved back, which makes the roadway much wider and further eliminating the curve which has been a menace to traffic.

The bridge, which is better known as Gum Spring Bridge, has been the scene of a number of serious accidents with a large number of persons being injured during the past several years. The Fort Humphreys road and the Mount Vernon road intersect at the bridge, which is located at the bottom of two hills, one on the highway and the other on the Mount Vernon road. Only one more narrow bridge remains on the Washington-Richmond highway between Alexandria and Chappawamsic, that being over Douge Run near Woodlawn.

He was taken to Rockville and treated by a physician and later was believed to be recovering.

BIG STILL SMASHED IN PRINCE GEORGES

Equipment in Full Blast Is Found as Officers Cut Way Into Building.

MUCH MASH DESTROYED

Prince Georges County police early yesterday raided a former gambling hall at Silver Hill and broke up a 1,000-gallon still. The still was in operation when the policemen entered the building, but there were no attendants at hand.

County Policeman Frank P. Prince and Deputy Sheriff L. E. Dutrow, accompanied by Special Investigator Edward H. Shoemaker, of Washington, staged the raid.

The policemen went to a low barnlike building in back of the Whoopee Barbecue stand at Silver Hill and broke into it with axes. They found a well laid-out still, with approximately 1,000 gallons of mash in the process of fermentation. About 50 gallons of liquor was found in two barrels.

The policemen dismantled the still and broke up the other equipment. An amusing incident was the discovery that the barrels were all labeled "whoopee filling."

The result of the Schick tests showed 88 positive, 202 negative and 7 not read. Diphtheria toxin-antitoxin inoculations were administered to 125 persons and 21 were vaccinated against smallpox.

Dr. Keister reports that the nutrition work under the direction of Miss Frances Mackinnon is continuing very satisfactorily throughout the county.

In his supplementary vital statistics report, which shows the births and deaths for the month of January, the doctor reports a decrease in both the death and birth rates.

There were 72 births in January, 1930, and 80 in the same month of 1929. Deaths decreased from 64 in 1929 to
